Warns Japs to Keep Hands off Thailand

Britain Shows 'Deep Concern' Over Situation

Eden Tells Commons Any Intervention By Nippon Will Be Regarded as Threat to Singapore; Tokyo Says British Plan Move.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Hull said today that Japanese intentions toward Thailand and the southwest Pacific area were matter of increasing concern to the United States government.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Great Britain today warned Japan against any intervention in Thailand.

Taking the floor during a general war debate in which several members urged immediate British action against Japan, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said:

"Someone in authority in Japan is endeavoring to manufacture a case for Japanese intervention in Thailand.

"If such a step is taken, it must inevitably give rise to a most serious situation between Britain and Japan.

"Any action threatening the independence and integrity of Thailand would be a matter of immediate concern to this country, particularly as threatening the security of Singapore."

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's action against Russia, Eden said, to some extent crushed and confused the faith of his own people.

"Militarily," he added, "every precaution that could be devised to see that Germany does not again plunge Europe into war must be taken. . . .

"Economically, the position is different. It would be to our and Europe's disadvantage that Germany should be economically ruined after the war."

Richard Clement Attlee, lord privy seal, told a wildly cheering house of commons today that "the Germans have been disagreeably surprised" in Russia, and asserted that Britain now is ready to repel any invasion attempt.

Attlee opened debate on progress of the war in the absence of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, whose present whereabouts continue to be shrouded in mystery.

As some members of the house demanded that Britain immediately move against Japan, and others loudly cheered Russian resistance in the east, Attlee declared Britain is ready to defend herself against any eventuality.

"Our ground defenses are incomparably stronger and our air strength immeasurably greater than a year ago," he said.

"We are confident that should

Relates How Seven Died On 'Devil's Highway'

(By United Press)

YUMA, Ariz.—A man, and a girl, emaciated, sun-blistered, their tongues black and swollen, lay in hospital beds today; the man struggling against the sheets and mumbling in Spanish, the girl quietly sleeping.

The man, Francisco Flores, 23, was nearly dead and all he said was "agua, agua"—"water, water." The girl, Socorro Cornejo, 19, was better, and she had told what happened along El Camino de Diablo—The Highway of the Devil.

Seven persons, members of her family and friends, died of hunger and thirst along the highway—a short cut through the desert along the border—after their truck broke down. Flores and Miss Cornejo survived.

"When we left (Nogales, Mexico) we had a 50-gallon barrel of water in the back of the truck," Miss Cornejo said.

"After we had stalled—I don't remember which day it was—one of the older men took off the lid and deliberately spilled it. He apparently had suffered a heat stroke and didn't know what he was doing.

"There were nine of us, and I watched them leave our truck, one by one, first my father, then my brother, then the others.

"I thought sure I was going to die, but I was very calm and not worried. I saw two of them slash their wrists, either to get blood to quench their thirst, or to kill themselves. It was terrible to stay there and watch them die. I had my sister's baby in my arms when he died. It seemed ages. I don't know how many days passed before this car came by."

The automobile of which she spoke was driven by Francisco Arvallo, a peddler, who found the bodies of the victims yesterday and took Miss Cornejo and Flores to the hospital.

Most of the bodies lay near the truck. Rafael Cornejo, the girl's brother, evidently had set out for San Luis, Mexico, 17 miles away, to find help. He got five miles. In delirium, he had torn off his clothes, and, finally completely naked, had written a suicide note and cut his throat.

They had drained the water from the truck's radiator.

Reports Troops Clear Way for Moscow Attack

Russians Assert City Still Remains In Their Hands; Burst of Communiques From Berlin Declares Reds Have Lost 4,000,000 Fighting Men.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—Soviet Russia has lost close to 4,000,000 men, killed, wounded and captured, and the Russian field army can be regarded now as having fallen before the German onslaught, DNB, official news agency, declared today.

(By United Press)

The Germans claimed victory today in the battle of Smolensk, and Moscow said German troops had been pushed back west from Smolensk.

There were these conflicting developments on the spreading war fronts:

The German high command made the claim to victory in the battle of Smolensk. It said Nazi forces were pounding ahead toward Moscow, stood "at the gates of Kiev" and amid outer defenses of Leningrad.

Russian private advices, said to have been transmitted direct from Smolensk, reported that not only is that key city still in Russian hands but that Soviet forces have driven back the Germans west of Smolensk.

Signs of a possible Japanese move against Russia at Vladivostok and on the long Manchukuo-Siberian frontier increased. The Japanese press continued to hammer away at Thailand.

The first shipment of American war supplies was revealed to be enroute to Russia, presumably via Vladivostok.

British naval forces were revealed to be operating in close cooperation with Russians in the Arctic, possibly from bases at Murmansk or Archangel, raising the possibility of new Anglo-Russian strokes against far northern Finland and Norway.

American-occupied Iceland had an air raid alarm but it was not revealed whether Nazi planes actually flew over Reykjavik or whether the alarms were a practice maneuver.

The German high command issued a sunburst of communiques today, recapitulating the progress of seven weeks' operations against Russia. No new territorial gains were claimed and Berlin dispatches said one important factor in the action appeared to be to quiet false reports and rumors said to be in wide circulation in Germany.

This statement would seem to indicate that reports are current within Germany that the campaign in the east is not making too good progress.

The high command claimed that 895,000 prisoners have been taken on the eastern front and that about 10,000 Russian planes have been put out of action. Its report clearly revealed that the main German effort is concentrated on the Smolensk front where three armies, two armored forces and a great air fleet were said to be operating.

Nazi sources, commenting on the high command communique,

Nazis Try New Drives In Russia

Arrows on the above map indicate the new drives launched by the Germans in a desperate effort to crack the Russians' defenses. While Moscow admitted German gains in some sectors, it insisted that Russian lines were intact. Today the Germans claimed the fall of Smolensk, opening the road to Moscow, but Russian dispatches said the Soviet troops still held the city, and had repulsed a German attack in that sector.

FIGHT 12-MONTH EXTENSION PLAN IN DRAFT BILL

Administration Leaders In Senate Stand Pat on 18-Month Proposal.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders, intent on securing an 18-months service extension for the army's rank and file, made their immediate objective today the defeat of a new substitute proposal which would limit the length of additional military duty to a single year.

The one-year limitation proposal, sponsored by Senator Burton (R. Ohio), was generally regarded as one of the last major hurdles in the way of a final senate vote on the service extension legislation. The chamber rejected an attempt yesterday to hold additional service to a six months limit.

Standing pat for an 18-month extension, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic chieftain, said he was unwilling to accept the 12-month limitation as a compromise substitute. Senator Thomas (D. Utah), floor sponsor of the measure, backed Barkley's stand, despite a backstage effort by some other supporters to effect an agreement on such a restriction in the hope of increasing the final vote for the bill.

Senator Chandler (D. Ky.) told reporters he believed only a "handful would vote against the bill on final passage if the 12-month provision were inserted.

As the senate entered its fifth day of debate on the measure, there appeared to be no doubt of its final approval in a form giving the president authority to extend the service of selectees, national guardsmen and reserves beyond the present limit of one year. The tenure of regulars who enlisted for three-year periods also would be lengthened.

FDR-CHURCHILL TRYST-AT-SEA RUMORS GROW

Get Chief Impetus In Absence of Either American or British Denials.

Rumors multiplied in London and Washington today that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt had met or were about to meet somewhere in the northwest Atlantic, but the only concrete thing to give them substantiation was the inability of American and British officials to deny them.

If the heads of the two English speaking nations had met or were about to meet, their governments had succeeded in cloaking them with impenetrable secrecy.

The British public had no hint of the whereabouts of the prime minister. President Roosevelt boarded the yacht Potomac Sunday night at New London, Conn., for what was said to be a vacation at sea. Correspondents did not accompany him on an escorting destroyer, as has been the custom, but yesterday the navy released a bulletin as from the Potomac that he was enjoying rest and quiet.

Washington official circles heard reports that Mr. Roosevelt had transferred at sea to a fast cruiser which had taken or was taking him to a rendezvous with the prime minister. Like all the other rumors, this could not be confirmed in any quarter.

The White House, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and other governmental quarters in Washington professed an inability to confirm or deny the rumors.

In London, official quarters pointed out that the whereabouts of the prime minister was a military secret, and necessarily, because he would be a choice target for German bombing planes. The house of commons was told that Churchill would not find it "convenient" to participate in the war progress debate.

An interesting side-light was the "disappearance" of Harry Hopkins, administrator of the lend-lease act and Mr. Roosevelt's closest adviser in aiding Britain. He was last seen immediately upon his return to London from Russia.

The American embassy in London said he was "somewhere in Britain." British sources

FIRST U. S. AID SENT TO RUSSIA

Report Armaments and Heavy Machinery Included In Shipment.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Authoritative sources revealed today that the United States already has sent the first shipment of war supplies to the Soviet Union to fulfill s pledge of immediate assistance against Germany.

The shipments included armaments and industrial machinery. The latter was ordered prior to the outbreak of the Russo-German hostilities but the United States had requisitioned the machinery to bolster American defense production.

The Russians will install the machinery in munitions factories east of the Ural mountains, it was understood. Soviet officials have advised this government that they are prepared to defend that industrial region even if the German invasion succeeds in virtually all of western Russia.

It was assumed here that the war shipments will go by way of the Pacific despite veiled Japanese threats of interference.

U. S. officials were inclined to minimize the threats, pointing out

BREAK ATTEMPT AT O. S. R. TOLD

Glattke Reveals 3-Week-Old Story of Five Inmates Who Slugged Guard.

The attempted escape of five Mansfield reformatory inmates who attacked Guard Roy W. Hardy after sawing their way out of a cell block more than three weeks ago was belatedly revealed today by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke.

The five inmates have since been transferred to the Ohio penitentiary for safe-keeping, Glattke said.

Hardy was struck over the head with a piece of hose and knocked down when he entered a corridor at the institution and found the five inmates crawling through a hole cut in the bars on the cell block, Glattke's report showed.

The inmates struck the guard with their fists before he was felled by the blow over the head, the superintendent said. Hardy was treated for bruises but was not seriously injured, it was learned.

Following the attack on Hardy the youths fled down a corridor. They offered no resistance when other guards confronted them, Glatike said.

ASSURES GUARD

Bird Tells Camp-Bound Men They Won't Lose Jobs.

Mansfield's Company F of the newly-formed state guard which has been slated to leave for training at Camp Perry Aug. 24 to 31 was reassured today by State Adjutant General Whittier S. Bird in Columbus that they need not fear loss of their regular jobs while they are in training during the one week of training.

He cited a section of state law which forbids Ohio concerns from discharging guardsmen because of time they spend in training or performing military service.

Mansfield's guardsmen will arrive at Camp Perry for the second training period following guardsmen from 12 other Ohio cities.

WILLARD WOMAN CALLED INSANE

Wife Charged With Stabbing Mate Ordered To Lima Hospital.

NORWALK —(AP)— Mrs. Emma Jean Roethlisberger, 25-year-old Willard resident indicted this week on a charge of fatally stabbing her husband, was found insane today and Judge E. G. Martin ordered her committed to the hospital for the criminal insane at Lima.

Mrs. Roethlisberger's husband, Louis, was stabbed to death at the family home last July 22.

FLEES 'FARM'

Shiloh Man Escapes London Penal Institution.

John Miller, 33, of Shiloh, serving a one-to-20-year term in the Ohio penitentiary for rape, escaped last night from the London Prison farm, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson was informed today by officials at the institution.

Sentenced last December by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, Miller entered the penitentiary Dec. 5 and later was transferred to the prison farm. No details of the escape were available.

Miller pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting a high school girl with her consent. The charge grew out of an investigation by deputy sheriffs of a report that Miller was involved in poultry thefts in the northern part of the county. A neighbor reported assault to officers and Miller confessed.

Now City Owns 'Em, and They Have Paid Own Way

Final Payment Authorized on Parking Meters Which Have Brought In $33,000 Since October.

Mansfield became the owner of the 414 parking meters it has been using on trial for the past nine months last night when city council authorized the payment of the final installment of $7,911.54.

By paying the lump amount owed after the trial period, the city saved two per cent or $611. The Michael Art Bronze company, Cincinnati, which sold the meters to the city, allowed a two per cent discount for paying the $7,911 at once rather than stretching it out in monthly payments.

The city paid $12,420 to the company in the nine months of the trial period. If the city had decided against keeping the meters, it would have paid a $3.75 rental for each meter for each of the nine months they were used.

Approximately $33,000 has been taken in by the meters since last October when the trial period started. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton assured council last night that the meters operated efficiently and urged their purchase.

Crafton said that the use of meters had greatly simplified Mansfield's parking problem and at the same time gave the city a new source of revenue to be used for traffic control.

Council made a brief show of possible rejection of the meters when Councilmen George C. Kyle and Lester Hunter raised the question of the meters' mechani-

LIKE AUTUMN

Thermometer Continues To Read Below Average.

Mansfield continued to enjoy near-autumn temperatures today, and moderate thermometer readings with fair skies were forecast for tonight and Thursday.

Yesterday's average of 69.5 was off nearly four points from the 16-year average of 73.4, while the top reading for the day was only 85 and the low was a comfortable 54.

Meanwhile, all of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania could look forward to the mild temperatures scheduled for Mansfielders as the weatherman appeared to be atoning for last week's scorchers.

TWO KILLED

Social Service Worker, County Home Inmate Die In Crash.

AKRON —(AP)— Two persons were killed today and four others injured, two critically, in a head-on automobile collision on Route 91 at Akron's eastern limits.

The dead were Mrs. Dortha McMillan, 35, of Suburban Boston Heights, head of the social service bureau at the Summit county home, and Joseph Mete, 66, a county home resident.

JOINS STAFF

M'Cullough Given Part-Time Job In Health Department.

Dr. Lewis B. McCullough, county coroner, has been employed today by the Mansfield Board of Health as part-time staff physician in the city health department.

He will assist Dr. William B. Wild, who was appointed city-county health commissioner following the death of Dr. R. C. Rehder.

Action toward filing the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Marylu McNeil, school nurse, last spring, was taken by the board, at its meeting Monday night when the position was offered to a county nurse. Dr. Wild said today no reply had been received as yet.

Complete Silence Marks Passing of Anti-Noise Bill

A proposed anti-noise ordinance, urged by Councilman George C. Kyle, but never drafted, died last night in the complete silence of a meeting of city council.

There was no mention of the proposal. Chief objection to the suggested measure arose last week when City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, jr., said that it would conflict with the state traffic code and that it could not be legally drawn.

Kyle conferred further with Ward on the possibility that some sort of ordinance could be worked out that would not run counter to state laws, but finally admitted he was stymied.

Last night, there was no mention of any proposal—past or future—just silence so far as noise control was concerned.

Threatens to Prosecute Folk Who Dump Garbage on Streets

Unless Mansfield residents quit dumping garbage and rubbish in city parks, and along city streets they will face prosecution, Mayor William J. Locke said today.

His statement followed a complaint yesterday that someone had dumped tin cans in front of a home on Park avenue west. This complaint climaxed a series of reports, principally from city parks, the mayor said.

"I don't believe people will do this if they realized the bargain the city offers in collecting garbage and rubbish," Locke said.

The city provides a garbage collection service costing 60 cents a month, the mayor pointed out, that gathers garbage once a week.

"Every year we have the problem of people dumping garbage and tin cans in parks and elsewhere, but this year it seems worse than usual," Locke said.

"We have the evidence against the offenders in a number of cases through address slips found in the refuse," the mayor went on, "and several, parties have even acknowledged it."

The mayor said that people who do not subscribe to the service can assist in keeping the city clean by taking their garbage to the garbage disposal plant on Wooster road and disposing of it there at the cost of 10 cents a can. There is no charge for rubbish, which should be taken to the dump on Sturges avenue, Locke said.

State Draft Officials Here Tonight for Meeting, Party

Col. C. W. Gogle, head of the selective service organization in Ohio, and four of his department heads will be in Mansfield tonight to discuss draft problems with board members and physicians from four counties and to attend a "going-away" party for more than 50 Richland county youths.

The session here, scheduled to open at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, is one of a series being conducted throughout the state by draft headquarters.

Col. Goble said changes in the selective service laws, occupational deferment of men, physical requirements, dependency and induction procedure will be discussed by the draft heads.

Selective service board members, clerks, appeal board members and agents, and examining physicians from Richland, Ashland, Morrow and Knox counties have been asked to attend the conference. The department heads are expected to conduct a question and answer period following the talks.

After the meeting, the state draft officials will go to the American Legion home for a "going-away" party for selectees who are scheduled to leave for camp next Monday and Tuesday.

Mansfield is one of the few cities in the state which is continuing the parties for youths

JAPAN WARNED TO KEEP HANDS OFF THAILAND

British Say Any Nippon Move Will Be of Deep Concern To Empire's Interest.

the enemy attempt an invasion by sea or air, he will be destroyed."

"The Germans have been disagreeably surprised," he said, referring to Russian resistance.

Charge British Plan Thailand Move

TOKYO — (INS) — Great Britain apparently is preparing to seize key points in Thailand by force, the official Japanese news agency Domei charged today.

While Japanese authorities expressed fear regarding United States strategy, and Nipponese forces massed on the French Indo-China frontier facing Thailand, the nation prepared for the "inevitable worst."

Domei's statement said:

"On the basis of Bangkok and Manila reports claiming concentration of Chinese troops on the Burma border, as well as disposition of British and Australian troops on the Burma-Thailand border, the landing of reinforcements at Singapore and other steps directed against Thailand as the immediate objective, the British apparently are preparing to seize key points in Thailand by force if necessary."

Although Domei admitted Japanese troop concentrations on Thailand's border, government circles remained silent.

The presence of Japanese troops on the Thailand frontier was explained merely as a preparation for occupation of the territories ceded to Thailand after final demarcation of the new border.

U. S. Keeps Close Watch on Thai Crisis

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States gave closest attention today to the intensifying Thailand crisis, which informed officials termed a Japanese pressure play fraught with potential dangers for American interests and possessions in the South Pacific.

Waiting on developments, the state department maintained official silence as to what policy the United States would pursue if Japan should force Thailand to yield to its demands and become a part of Japanese-dominated "greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere."

There were broad hints in authoritative quarters today, however, that Britain was not prepared to sit idly by. Whatever action Britain takes, these sources predicted, will receive full support from the United States.

The belief was expressed, meanwhile, that the position taken by the United States government last week with regard to the recent Japanese penetration of French Indo-China might well apply to the threatened coup in Thailand.

On Indo-China, Acting Secretry of State Sumner Welles assailed the Vichy government last week for bowing to Japanese demands under the "pretext of common defense."

The surrender of Indo-Chinese military bases "to a power whose territorial ambitions are apparent," Welles declared, presented a situation "which has a direct bearing upon the problem of American security."

The policy of the United States, Welles said, "would be governed by the manifest effectiveness" with which the governments protect their territories "from domination and control by those powers which are seeking to extend their rule by force and conquest, or by the threat thereof."

Welles' statement was authoritatively interpreted at the time as a broad hint that the United States would assist the remaining French colonies if they resisted Axis demands.

Predicts 'Blow Up' In Pacific

ROME — (INS) — The Pacific powder barrel may soon blow up, Virginio Gayda, authoritative Italian editor, said in the Giornale D'Italia today.

"Japan is turning to Thailand," Gayda wrote.

"Thailand, which benefited by the Japanese move into French Indo-China, needs further help to withstand British threats.

"Russia is openly siding with an enemy of Japan despite her non-aggression treaty. As a result, 100,000 men have been added to the Japanese garrison in Manchukuo."

Anglo-Saxon commerce, Gayda said, has been expelled from Shanghai and Hongkong.

Hints More U. S. Warships in Far East

MELBOURNE, Australia— (INS) —For the benefit of Japanese cars, Australian Navy Minister W. M. Hughes hinted broadly today that "other" United States warships may be roaming through the waters of the southern Pacific.

Hughes made his remarks in commenting on the visit to Australia of the United States heavy cruisers Northampton and Salt Lake City.

In a pointed reference to Japan, which he did not mention by name, Hughes said:

"The visit will not escape the notice of our friends in the north."

At a press conference, a representative of the Japanese newspaper Asahi asked Prime Minister R. G. Menzies whether he personally could do anything to ease the tension in the Far East.

Menzies replied:

"Japan herself knows most of the answers to the questions coming up. It is for Japan to make them."

Akron Machinist Who Killed Two Dies In Hospital

AKRON — (AP) — Self-inflicted wounds last night claimed the life of Edward Hudson, 47-year-old machinist, who admitted in a death-bed statement that he "planned to kill" his estranged wife Loretta, 38, if she refused to return to him.

Prosecutor George Parr said Hudson also confessed firing at Harold Klink, 39, bus driver who was riding to work, because "I didn't want him to bother me." Mrs. Hudson and Klink died of bullet wounds.

Hudson recalled struggling with another man but claimed no knowledge of shooting Harry V. Stripes, 40, driver of the bus. Stripes and Edward Robinson, 18, are in serious condition and John Barr, 48, was grazed by a bullet.

After the shooting which occurred as Mrs. Hudson boarded a bus, Hudson fled in a car and turned the gun on himself when halted by police.

Selectees already in service over 28 years old will have to file applications for discharge and show "due cause" why they should be sent home under the legislation.

The senate approved with a record vote a conference report on the measure previously adopted by the house.

NAZIS CLAIM KEY RUSSIAN CITY CAPTURED

Say Smolensk Taken: Reds Assert City Still Remains In Their Hands.

claimed that the capture of 895,000 prisoners indicated that Russia has lost 4,000,000 effectives, or possibly half the size of her total defense forces, in killed, wounded and captured.

Normally, about three or four soldiers are wounded for each man killed and those captured and missing run about equal to the total killed and wounded. The estimate of authorized Nazi sources would mean that the Russians are losing far more men, killed and wounded, than they are in prisoners, a reversal of the normal statistics.

The German high command, while presenting specific statistics on Russian losses in all categories, made no report and offered no estimate on the losses suffered by the German armies in the bloody battles which it said have been fought.

The picture of eastern front operations given by Moscow continued to contrast sharply with that of Berlin, particularly as to Smolensk which the Nazi high command has claimed was captured by German forces three weeks ago today.

The Russians insisted they still held Smolensk and that their lines in that area are holding well after 21 days of fighting. Moscow admitted that a serious German attempt is being made to slice through Russian lines around Kholm for a double-threat drive toward the Leningrad-Moscow railroad. If the Germans reached that line they could turn north toward Leningrad, south toward Moscow or southwest in an attempt to envelop Smolensk from the rear.

Japan's intentions regarding Siberia and Vladivostok appeared clearly to be foreshadowed in a statement by a Japanese naval officer, appearing in the Tokyo press. This statement declared that Russia now faces an "internal revolution" and that Japan cannot be unconcerned in such a development.

The statement added that, because of the Russian developments, Japan stands on the verge of entry into the world conflict.

Military sources in Shanghai heard that serious fighting along the Manchukuo-Siberian border already is under way and has been for more than a fortnight. Japanese wounded were said to be arriving at Harbin. A Japanese military spokesman at Shanghai denied such reports yesterday as did a Russian spokesman in Moscow.

Other Japanese newspapers continued to elaborate the thesis that encirclement of Japan is being speeded by growing cooperation between Russia, the United States and Britain. The possibility that Russia may give the United States bases on the Siberian coast again was raised.

In Shanghai it was felt that reports that the British, having strongly reinforced their positions in Singapore and Burma, might move into Thailand actually represented propaganda issued by the Japanese to provide a basis for possible Japanese moves into that country.

London announced that contact between the British fleet and Russian forces "in the north" has been effected in connection with air operations against northern Finnish and Norwegian ports. The report raised the possibility that the British may base some fleet units on Murmansk or Archangel for further operations in the arctic sector.

There was action at the United States' newest far northern base, too. Reykjavik, capital of Iceland, had a 40-minute air raid alarm as did Akureyri on the northern Icelandic coast. It was not revealed whether the alarm was a practice affair or whether German planes actually appeared. If German planes appeared, it marked the first time that American armed forces have had such an experience.

The Royal Air Force bombed Mannheim, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe in its night offensive against Germany. Berlin admitted that casualties were suffered and asserted six British planes were shot down.

Vice Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlan went to Paris for discussions of "administrative problems," presumably with the German occupying authorities.

Claims Nazi Army 'Beginning to Crack'

MOSCOW — (INS) — "Hitler's armies are beginning to crack," Soviet Vice Foreign Commissar S. A. Lozovsky declared at a press conference today.

"The reichswehr is still a great force and will not explode by itself," he added. "It will take repeated and powerful blows to break it."

RAF Bombers Pound Nazi Supply Bases

LONDON — (UP) — British bombers renewed their air offensive on Germany last night, smashing with "a great weight of very heavy bombs" at Mannheim, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe, the air ministry said today.

Other raiders attacked factories and railways at Aachen and blasted docks at the invasion port of Ostend.

The attacks, the air ministry admitted, cost nine British bombers during the night.

UNION WINS ELECTION AT GALION PLANT

AFL Gains Bargaining Rights at Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing Co.

GALION—Out of 290 employes eligible to vote at the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing company, 171 cast their ballots Tuesday in favor of a union, affiliated with the A. F. of L., while 108 voted against the union.

A total of 279 employes voted in the election conducted by the National Labor Relations board, to determine the collective bargaining agent for all production and maintenance employes of the company. Walter Taag, field examiner from the 8th regional labor board office at Cleveland, was in charge of the elections.

Under an agreement signed July 30, between company officials and Local 1151, International Association of Machinists, and Local 169, International Molders and Foundry Workers Union, AFL, the petitioners, all production and foundry workers who were on the payroll July 15, 1941, were eligible to vote.

Teacher appointments made by O. E. Hill, superintendent of schools, were approved, and several resignations accepted, at the meeting of the Galion board of education, Tuesday night. The board also set the date for opening of schools, Monday, Sept. 8.

Resignations accepted by the board included those of Richard Horn who has been in charge of visual education. He has accepted a position at the Dayton Y. M. C. A. as instructor. Marguerite Weichel's resignation also was accepted. She will go to Lorain to teach.

Another teacher, Stanley Cameron, who had only been appointed recently to fill the vacancy made by the resignatinon of Muriel Ricker, commercial teacher, also resigned. His resignation was accepted, and the board hired in his place, Earl Roth who was employed last year at Edison, Ohio. He will teach commercial subjects in senior high school.

The appointment of Emmet Hager, son of a former Galion minister, was employed as a grade teacher in the junior high school. He taught last year at Trinway, Ohio.

Dr. P. A. Murr, president of the board, appointed a committee composed of Louise John, Dr. B. P. Mansfield and Supt. Hill, to see if boilers in the schools need recovering, and also to investigate the water softeners.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1941.

Whatever may be done about prices, it's quite apparent there's to be no "ceiling" on taxes.

Now that a 73-year-old Ohio pensioner has married a 16-year-old girl down in Muskingum county, the Tennessee reaction is being anxiously awaited.

A poll taken out in Montana reveals that Senator Wheeler would be defeated, 4 to 1, if he were a candidate at this moment—but Berlin wouldn't know about that.

Objections To a 'Foreign War'

THERE are some patriotic Americans who say they would support a war for national defense but who vigorously oppose a "foreign war." The argument on this subject would be more enlightening and less bitter if they would define their terms. What is a foreign war? What, for that matter, is a war for national defense? The Germans are not yet fighting within their own borders, but claim self-defense.

Neville Chamberlain thought he knew the answers to the above questions in 1938 when he referred to the crisis in Czechoslovakia as "a quarrel in a far-away country between people of whom we know nothing." By 1939, however, the outbreak of actual war in Poland, another far-away country, became Great Britain's war, partly because of pledges to Poland, but largely it was then believed that a far-away menace was also a close-to-home menace.

Norway, Holland and Belgium were all determined not to engage in foreign wars. The quarrel of their neighbors in Europe was to be ignored by them. Suddenly, however, they found themselves engaged in a war of most desperate—and futile—self-defense. Today, citizens of those countries, and of Poland, Czechoslovakia and other European lands, are training in Canada or Britain, or fighting the Nazis on the seas, in Africa, and in the air over Europe. Are they now engaged in a foreign war?

"Those little wars," writes Anne O'Hare McCormick in the New York Times, "have grown into a great civil war which will either shatter world civilization or restore it, but which cannot end in compromise." What do the "no-foreign-war" people think about that?

Reduction In Horn-Honking

NOW that it has been decided that Mansfield's proposed anti-horn-honking ordinance would conflict with state law, the question is once more thrown open to argument as to whether there is any real need for such an ordinance.

In the first place, unnecessary horn-honking can obviously be classed among the peace-disturbing noises prohibited in a present ordinance and it seems reasonable to assume that any persistent horn-honkers can be arrested, convicted and fined under that ordinance—if it is ever dug up and dusted off.

Then again, obnoxious horn-honking on Mansfield streets has decreased materially during the past three weeks, since some of the horn-honkers were given an idea of what sensible people thought about them and they began to realize that needless horn-blowing classified them as mentally subnormal.

It has also been demonstrated that a careful motorist can drive as much as five hundred miles without once sounding his horn, and while this may be regarded as extreme it at least proves that the average driver is inclined to use the horn much oftener than is necessary to safety.

With better enforcement of traffic regulations in general, and with continued emphasis on the idiocy of horn-blowing when traffic is tied up at an intersection, it may appear that we can do quite nicely without the special ordinance—that nothing more is needed than enforcement of present laws.

Home Town News By Air Mail

THERE is an element of novelty about having the home town paper sent by air mail while you're on a vacation trip, as was done by one group of Mansfielders who recently journeyed to the Alaska area.

But, come to think of it, even the extra cost of air mail postage is a small matter as compared to the satisfaction of having the home paper available as quickly as possible when you are away on a trip.

Except for extremely distant points, newspapers reach their destination quite expeditiously under regular mailing, but this can be speeded up when sent at letter mail rates and can be further hurried by air mail, as is noted from the fact that no more than four days was required for a News-Journal to reach the most distant Alaskan point visited by the Mansfield tourists.

Unless a vacation is to be spent at one place the matter of securing delivery while on a trip requires some advance planning, with allowance of time for mail to reach the city or town where it is to be called for. This may seem to involve some trouble, but the enjoyment of perusing one or more copies of the home paper when you are at some distant place is well worth the effort and cost.

Long View Toward Seaways

THIRTY-SEVEN years ago J. Adam Bede of Duluth, Minn., was a representative in congress from that state. At that time he voted for construction of the Panama Canal. The other day he appeared before the house rivers and harbors committee in behalf of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway.

"Nature gave us that power and transportation facility," he said, "for heaven's sake let us utilize it!"

Right or wrong, and the argument is still going on, isn't that a slightly new slant on the matter in question? It is certainly a reasonable viewpoint for a man who was willing in 1904 to take a chance on the Panama Canal. But former Representative Bede would probably be modern enough to favor a seaway, anyhow. He says he was "born in an ox cart" and he expects to go to heaven "in a flying machine," so an open mind toward future developments is natural to him.

"Sometimes I think I might as well etaoin shrdlu——" comments a character in a serial story running in an Ontario newspaper—but surely conditions are not that bad.

It is being disclosed that thousands of selectees are unable to read and write—but, of course, if they can make an "X" they qualify as voters.

Times change. The United States used to send marines into Latin American countries without a second thought.

Latest forecast of the end of the world is next March—but some people think Hitler can't win that soon.

AMERICAN V'S FOR VICTORY

'Sergeant York' Sticks to Record

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — "Sergeant York" is the only movie ever written from the Congressional Record.

As late as 1935, it was being written into the Record that Sgt. Alvin C. York, of Pall Mall, near Jamestown, in the mountains of Tennessee, could have made a fortune by exploiting his position of No. 1 hero of the World War— but chose only to pull in a few dollars for speeches and such, when the Bible class of the Church of Christ and Christian Union needed them to carry on.

Until 1911, he turned down more offers from the stage and movies than the most romantic miss ever had in wildest fancy. But finally the need for funds to carry on his work in the Tennessee hill country drove the still towering, silent hill-billy, to put his John Henry on a Hollywood contract.

When he did, there were two stipulations he insisted should be written into it. The first was that Gary Cooper, whom he had never seen off-screen, should play the role of Al York. The second was that there would be no act of heroism or deed of bravery in the movie which had not been written into the Congressional Record.

Reams of Description.

THE results were that the studio making the film had to trade Bette Davis to get Gary Cooper for the title role—and the story's authors had to go to the Congressional Record for every detail of the battle scenes.

What they found there were reams of description, introduced into the senate record by Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, who still holds forth on the senate floor and is the third oldest member of the upper house in point of continuous service. On the house side were additional reams of lurid description introduced by a slim, short-statured congressman from Pickett county, Tenn. He was addressed then as Rep. Cordell Hull.

Having seen the picture and read the Record, I can vouch for once that the Congressional Record proved a thoroughly adequate scenario. As a matter of fact there was one place where the Record was so vivid that the script writers had to tone it down. It had to do with the number of Germans Sergeant York picked off.

According to the Record, the gaunt, deliberate York (he was then a corporal, left in charge of a seven-man squad because all other officers and men had been killed or wounded) fired his rifle until it was burning hot and when 90 Germans marched down the hill to surrender (42 more were picked up later), it was because nearly 30 of their comrades had fallen under the deadly fire of this one-man blitzkrieg from the Tennessee uplands. The Hollywood scripters must have decided that was a little too much killing for the second elder of the Church of Christ. They cut the number in half.

Called It 'Natural.'

OTHERWISE they followed the Congressional Record . . . and apparently close enough to suit the Sergeant. When he saw the picture for the first time, his first and only comment was: "It shore was natural."

The big, gangling, kindly Sergeant was in town recently and found the front door of the White House as wide open to him as that of his house on the farm in the hill country. There is at least one other door in Washington that is even wider open any time Sgt. Alvin C. York wants to walk up to it.

It's the one over at the war department. There isn't a man living (and few dead from the Revolution on) who is a better ad for the U. S. army. A rip-roaring, hell-raising hill man who got religion and had to wrestle with his conscience before patriotism overcame his objections to war, York is the kind of hero that the propagandists dream about. And the script writers, too. Imagine having to do nothing more than sticking to the letter of the Congressional Record to get a movie!

Strength to 'Wing On'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ONCE I saw a boat. She was a dirty little tub with nondescript lines—fouled with weeds and barnacles—her woodwork rotten—her cable thick with rust.

Plainly she'd known both storms and abuse. She was tattered as a tramp—nicked with scars from every sea. Now she lay waiting, in the slime and stink of a low tide, for the signal that would send her out on another trip to the South Sea Islands—gathering copra or whatever loot she might come by.

That night, just as the sun was setting, I saw her dip through the Golden Gate. Watched her—unbelieving—for she was transformed. Now, in the flaring gold of that last hour, her filth and squalor were all erased. Bright and free, she sailed into the sunset . . . with the mystery of the sea veiling her scars . . . and her brave heart fronting the stars. There, for one proud moment, she poised — showing herself as she really was—on the crest of a wave. And, seeing her so, I remembered her name which I had passed indifferently in the morning's mist.

"WING ON!"

"Wing On!"—those words had stood out dimly amidst the filth and scars. But seeing her now, gold tipped against the calling sea and setting sun, I knew they were more than a painted name. Despite her lowly birth—her ugliness—her long and weary fight—they were the cry of her sturdy, seaworthy heart—

"WING ON!"

I saw her years ago, that battered little boat—but the memory of her has stayed with me ever since. And given me understanding of us human folk many a time, when I otherwise might have failed. For most of us, are tramps and traders, whether we wear imported tweeds or ragged dungarees. And most of us are fouled with the weeds and barnacles and rust of old faults we should have shed, many a year since . . . or nicked with the scars of anger and grief and failure.

It's a sorry sight we make, as we lie there at anchor, waiting for the flood tide to carry us out to the next adventure. And yet, there comes some moment in each of our lives when we cast away from the stink and the slime, and flashing clear against the calling sea, we show the dream that lies at each of our hearts and cry—

"WING ON!"

For there never yet was a human—barring those with a blasted brain—who didn't have secret wings, no matter how battered his hulk or fouled his record. Not wings you could see, perhaps, but secret wings that lifted him out of the reek and wrack into a dream of glory.

And there never was one who didn't pray—not in sounds you could hear perhaps . . . but in words that, I'm thinking, reached far beyond the rotting wharves and the stained gray tide of this world—

"O H. GOD — GIVE ME STRENGTH TO WING ON!"

Much Food Shipped to England Under Big Lease-Lend Program

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—In the headlines, lend-lease aid to Britain is chiefly a story of planes, tanks, ships, guns and munitions. But these dramatic war supplies are only one part of the picture.

An equally vital, though little known phase of this gigantic program is food.

Today, practically every ship leaving U. S. shores for embattled England carries stocks of food as part of its cargo. Also significant is the fact that this steady flow of food shipments differs markedly from those of World war days.

Then the foodstuffs were in bulk form—boatloads of grain and fresh meats. But now, with British and Allied shipping suffering terrible destruction, there aren't enough bottoms to transport both bulky armaments and bulky food across the hazardous Atlantic.

Since the cargo space for bulky armaments cannot be reduced, and with the British food situation becoming acute, food is being shipped in concentrated and dehydrated form. Thus it is carried in the same ships with arms and munitions, taking up relatively little space.

The extent of these shipments and what they meant to the American farmer is shown graphically by the following list of lend-lease food purchases between June 1 and July 19:

American cheese,	20,483,175 pounds;
corn starch,	35,820,000 pounds;
frozen eggs,	36,648,630 pounds;
dried eggs,	4,458,650 pounds;
canned fish,	1,083,052 cases;
dehydrated soup,	4,400,000 pounds;
soy beans,	9,070,000 pounds;
dried beans,	40,770,000 pounds;
corn sugar,	5,696,000 pounds;
enzymes,	3,360 pounds;
dried apricots,	9,986,000 pounds;
honey,	3,557,300 pounds;
enriched flour,	399,000 pounds;
concentrated orange juice,	92,302 gallons;
Vitamin A,	2,547,183 units;
Vitamin B1,	3,965 kilograms;
peanut butter,	1,762,000 pounds;
lard,	28,662,720 pounds.

Note—Management of the lend-lease food program is under the surplus marketing administration, aided by the U. S. public health service, the British ministry of health and the Anglo-American food purchasing committee.

Churchill Phones.

IT WAS hot in Washington. Everyone who could possibly get out of town had left. This did not apply, of course, to thousands of government workers, nor to hundreds of big-top executives sweating over the defense program. Nor did it apply, at the moment, to two ladies, the beautiful Evie Robert, wife of the ex-Democratic national secretary, and the gracious Mrs. Lionell Atwill, ex-wife of General Dauglas MacArthur, new military potentate of the Philippines.

Hot and a bit bored, Mrs. Robert and Mrs. Atwill decided that Washington needed cheering up. So one of them picked up the telephone, called the White House.

"Is this the White House?" asked Mrs. Atwill in a broad British accent. "This is the overseas operator, London calling. Mr. Winston Churchill would like to speak to Mr. Steve Early. And, oh yes, Mr. Churchill asks Mr. Early to pay for the call."

There was excitement at the other end of the telephone for a moment, then:

"Ask Mr. Churchill to wait for a moment. Mr. Early will take the call in the other room."

But all Mr. Early got was some amused snickers.

Later Secretary of the Interior Ickes got a call from Winston Churchill, charges reversed. But the economical Mr. Ickes refused to pay for the call—even from the supposed prime minister of England.

The Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles also received a call, and while he was willing to pay for it, he was the only one who kept Mr. Churchill waiting. His secretary said Mr. Welles was busy and that he could not speak to the prime minister for at least ten minutes.

So passes the hot weather in Washington.

Freezing Chinese Funds.

THERE was one unwritten chapter in the story of American freezing of funds of those two Oriental neighbors, Japan and China.

It was published that the funds of friendly China were frozen as well as the funds of unfriendly Japan. But unpublished was the fact that China for four months had been asking the state department to freeze its funds, but the state department had refused.

China's request was quite unusual, for most nations object strenuously to having their funds frozen. For instance, Switzerland, hearing that she would be included with Germany when Hitler's funds were frozen, argued for weeks.

But in the case of China, many of her funds are in the hands of big Chinese merchants and bankers in Shanghai, who for business reasons are playing in with the Japanese. And they have been draining Chinese currency from the country.

So Roosevelt's special Chinese emissary, Lauchlin Currie, was requested by Chiang Kai-shek to ask Secretary of State Hull to freeze Chinese funds. This would have hamstrung the pro-Japanese Chinese.

However, Secretary Hull refused. Twice Chiang Kai-shek made the request, but both times it was refused. In fact the state department even denied that such a request was made, presumably on the ground that it came not through diplomatic channels, but through Mr. Currie who is only a White House secretary.

Finally, however, when Japanese funds were frozen, Chiang Kai-shek got his request fulfilled. But it took Japanese aggression in the South Pacific to do it.

Bootleg Gasoline.

THE DAYS of bootlegging from Canada may be coming back again. In this case, however, the bootlegging will be gasoline, not alcohol.

Canada has imposed a ban on sale of gasoline between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. on weekdays, and all day Sunday. But this restriction does not apply to Americans. To keep the tourist dollars flowing, Americans are allowed to buy gasoline when Canadians cannot.

Now comes the action of Oil Administrator Ickes imposing a similar ban on gasoline sales in Eastern states. Result may be that a motorist who is unable to buy gasoline in Buffalo or Detroit, can cross the river and buy it in Canada.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The nicest thing I can report today is the arrival of two slim-legged youngsters whose names are Margarita and Maria, who come from Morelia, Mexico, to sing south-of-the border ballads to the citizens who find Benito Collada's Greenwich Village restaurant, El Chico, a gratifying rendezvous these high-starred, long, hot nights.

Margarita and Maria are sisters and their last name is Padilla. They are part Indian. They have a repertoire of 3,700 ballads, laments, and romantic songs, and when I interrupted to ask, "Did you say three thousand and seven hundred?" they nodded and answered "Si."

That's a lot of songs, you think, and Margarita agrees with you. "That's also a mighty good brand of English you speak for a girl who was reared in the central sector of Mexico," you say to this girl, who is three years the senior of her 20-year-old sister.

"We went to night school three years," she explained. "But even now I do not arrange my words properly. In English you put the adjective before the noun, which is difficult for me to remember, as when I tried to send a night letter the other night and told the telegraph operator I wanted to send a 'letter night'."

YOU sit in El Chico in little alcoves under the imperial seals of the provinces of old Spain, and sudenly the Padilla sisters, in wide, hooped and braided Mexican-Indian skirts come out.

These dresses weigh so much their shoulders ache just from the weight. . . . "Cost me 450 pesos," Margarita confessed, indicating the black, blue, white, green and silver of her costume. The sombrero, or Mexican hat that dangled from each of their small, olive necks cost 150 pesos.

They had quitars and they strummed their own accompaniment as they sang "La Borracha," which is a song about a girl who has had "one drink too many." Their singing, always in Spanish, never in English, is riotous, gay, sometimes undisciplined but always noisily appreciated.

A number they dote on singing is "Caste Y Veras," which means "Get Married and You'll See," and another is "Prinonero del Mar," a bolero which means "Prisoner of the Ocean."

MARIA, who is the quieter of the two, shyly confessed she was hog wild over Bette Davis and wishes she could be like that distinguished film actress.

Though this is their first glimpse of New York their names are not entirely unknown in the record shops and juke-box casinos of the metropolis. Margarita and Maria have been recording their softly romantic tunes for Columbia the last four years.

In private life Margarita loves above all else the rhythms of the tango, and after that the bolero. Surprisingly, she cares little about dancing. She is single and so is Maria, "but the ring which I have changed to this finger used to be an engagement ring," admits Margarita. This is a condition that may soon be altered. In the last year El Chico has had three of its most fetching people forsake professional life for matrimony.

Water Witchery

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE LIKE the place where we live at the edge of town much better since we dug our own well," said a caller at our home. "We had only a cistern for quite a while, and I had to carry drinking water from a neighbor's by the pailful. That was a chore. The pail seemed to be always empty and sometimes, in winter, I'd slip and spill it and have to go back and try it over. One day last fall an old man was passing by and saw me bringing home a pail of water.

"He walked up the bank to where a peach tree stood, and cut a forked piece off with his pocket knife. The sides of the peach twig were about the same size, I noticed—18 inches long, or so. He grasped the ends by the thumb side of his hand, with the folk sticking up and gripped them tight. Then he walked, slowly, across our lawn. At one place, the forked stick dipped down. I saw him smile. He turned it up again and walked from another angle toward the same spot. Again the V of the peach sprout pointed downward. He started from four different points but only at that one place did the peach fork turn.

"Pound a stake here," he told me, "and dig yourself a well. You'll find more water'n you'll ever need at less than 15 feet."

"Well, I pounded in a stake, and thanked him, though I'd never believed in signs like that. But after my wife and I had talked it over, I decided to try digging where he'd said. I went as far as I could comfortably go with a pointed shovel, and then borrowed a long posthole auger, such as linemen use, and worked each evening. It was stony in several places, but I managed to get the stone out and go on down. At 10 feet, moisture appeared on the bottom of the auger. I worked faster then, and pretty soon it seemed like I broke through into a cavern filled with water. The hole filled up more than half way to the top and I dipped and dipped but couldn't make any change in the water level. I got tile and lined the well and then put in a pump. Since then we've had all the water we need, and we enjoy it more because we did all the work ourselves."

"But tell me how that old man knew the water was there. Do you believe in witchery?" I asked.

"No," said he, "there's a reason for everything. I read up on water witching after that—just the other day I saw something that seems new. Seems like there's an acid in peach sap that has an affinity for water—but that's not all. Any body of water has a charge of electric current, large or small, and it seems some people have a more electric makeup than others. The individual who handles the peach sprout must be of a rare physical makeup. I don't begin to understand it, yet, but it seems to me it might be the beginning of a sensible explanation."

CHAPTER XXVII

Doris was more worried about Jimmy's family than she cared to admit to Bonnie, or even to Miss Hargrave, who had become her confidant in the long weeks of convalescence. As the time neared for Jimmy's return she became more and more uncertain of her reception by the Allen family. Jimmy's first marriage must have been a source of shock and embarrassment to them. Would they approve of his marriage to a girl from Klane's basement, a girl whose father was a criminal? The answer was obvious. And if Jimmy's family and friends treated her as May Whittier had done, what chance for happiness would they ever have?

Two days before Jimmy was to come back Doris sat by the window of her hospital room. Outside she could see the snow-covered trees, as the miracle of winter cast its spell over the city.

Miss Hargrave, standing at her side, remarked, "And to think that in a few weeks you'll be in Honolulu."

"His family is over there," Doris said thoughtfully. No doubt that was the reason Jimmy had chosen the islands for their honeymoon. Doris wished they could go somewhere else and be alone. On the trip from South America she had contended with outside interference that almost ruined their romance. If things were as bad in Honolulu it would spoil these first weeks of their marriage which Doris so desperately wanted to be perfect.

"Stop worrying," her nurse commanded, seeing a frown cross her face. "You want to be fresh and rested when Mr. Allen comes back. It's a good thing he's taking you to the islands. You can use a little sun and fresh air."

"I never felt better in my life," Doris said, and it was the truth.

During the years of work Doris had not had time for rest, proper food or relaxation. This period in the hospital was the first chance she had ever had to take proper care of herself.

Jimmy Allen, returning unexpectedly the next morning, was pleased with her appearance. "You look like a million dollars!" he said, lifting her into his strong arms. "Did you miss me?"

She buried her head against his shoulder. "Oh darling, you don't know how much! I don't seem to be alive without you."

He held her with fierce tenderness. "I feel the same way, Doris."

They were silent a moment before Jimmy said, "I brought you something. Shall we talk first, or do you want it now?"

Doris put her arms about his neck. "I want to see it now."

He drew a small white satin box from his pocket With eager fingers Doris snapped it open to stare wide-eyed at a magnificent square-cut diamond set in platinum. "Oh, Jimmy!" she cried, drawing the ring from the box reverently. "Oh—it's beautiful! It's the most beautiful thing I've ever seen!"

He slipped it upon her finger. "This is to show that you belong to me—now and always."

The ring lay heavy and magnificent on her frail white hand and flashed its blue-white radiance like a shining symbol. In all her life Doris Newton had never dreamed of anything so beautiful.

He smiled at her eagerness. "I want to give you all the lovely things in the world, darling. I'd like to snatch the stars right out of the sky and lay them at your feet."

She smiled up at him tenderly, adoringly. "Let's leave them in the sky where we can look at them," she said, pressing her face against his shoulder.

He drew her down into his lap in the big chair facing the window.

"I hate to tell you this, Doris, but I have to go back to Chicago for a few days again before we can be married."

"Oh, Jimmy!" she protested. "You promised."

"I know, darling, but I have to be there for the trial."

"George Malone, you mean? But why is the trial in Chicago?"

"This isn't the kidnaping. This is something else."

"But I thought he was already in jail. Jimmy, tell me what happened. No one will answer my questions and I haven't seen a newspaper since I came to the hospital."

"There's not a thing for you to worry about," he assured her. "When it's all over I'll tell you everything."

Did he know that Malone was her father? "Jimmy, I've got to tell you something," Doris said desperately. "I should have done it long ago."

"No," he said, taking her hand firmly. "I don't want to hear it."

"But it's important!" Doris cried.

"Nothing is important except that we're going to be married when I come back from Chicago." And he silenced her protest with a kiss.

"I don't want to talk about Malone until I come back. You'll have to trust me that it's the best way. We have other things to talk about now . . . One of them is May Whittier."

Doris raised serious blue eyes to his. "Jimmy, I heard what she said to you in our cabin. I was just outside the door and I heard her say that I was marrying you—because of your money. How could you have believed a thing like that?"

"I didn't believe it, Doris," he replied in a low voice. "I didn't believe it for one minute."

"Then why did you tell me right after that that our marriage was impossible? You told me that same night."

"I think I know now what happened," Jimmy said, 'but at the time I couldn't figure it out. Do you remember telling me that May had 'already told' you?"

"Yes. May said you believed her and that was the reason you were breaking our engagement."

His eyes were hard. "What a chump I was not to suspect that. Listen, Doris, and listen carefully. I want you to understand what happened."

"Go ahead, dear," Doris said "Tell me everything."

And holding her close in his arms, Jimmy began: "While May and I were talking in your cabin that night, I got a radiogram. I opened it and May saw it. It was from my wife. She refused to go through with the divorce unless I made a larger settlement."

"So that's why you told me we couldn't be married?"

"That's why, and when you said that May had already told you, naturally I thought she had told you about the cable. She pretended to be terribly sorry for me and said she was only trying to warn me about you for my own good. In the end, she even admitted that she might have been wrong about you. Now I see that it was all a part of her trick."

"But you didn't believe her lie about me?"

"Not for a minute," Jimmy Allen said firmly. "I wondered why you acted so strangely but I decided you were disgusted with me because I wasn't divorced I had nothing to offer you. I was still tied. So I let you alone. What else could I do?"

"Oh, Jimmy! How could we have been such fools? If we had just talked things over we would have found out the whole thing was a misunderstanding."

Doris remembered the night Jimmy had told her that their marriage was impossible. He had said, "There is nothing a woman wouldn't do for money, nothing too low or cheap . . ." He had been referring to his wife who had refused to give him a divorce because she wanted more money . . . He thought Doris knew about it. And all the time she had thought his bitter words were directed against her!

"When did you find out the truth?" Doris asked.

"After we landed. My wife met the boat. I suppose you saw her."

"Yes," Doris said quietly, "I saw her."

"She admitted to me that May had radioed her advising her to call off the divorce and hold out for more money."

"May did that? But why?"

"She knew I wanted to marry you and that I'd pay any price for my freedom."

"How awful!" Doris said, feeling faintly ill. "How could anyone be so low?"

"You have no idea how low some people can be," Jimmy said and the hard note crept back into his voice.

Doris put a small palm over his mouth . . . "Don't talk like that, darling. It's all in the past now."

"You bet it is! When I saw my wife at the dock, it was the last straw. She married me deliberately to get all she could, and already I'd given her more than she deserved. Like a fool I tried to play fair, but when I saw what she was trying to pull, I was through. I told her if she didn't go through with the divorce I would divorce her, and under the circumstances she wouldn't get a penny. So she was glad enough to accept the settlement I had already made, and go back to Reno."

"Then it's all over? Nothing can happen now?"

He smiled down at her. "Nothing, sweetheart! Doris, can you forgive me for being such a fool? I should have gone to you on the boat and explained the whole thing. As soon as we landed and I had time to figure things out, I realized it. But I didn't want to get in touch with you until the divorce was over. I wanted to be free to ask you to marry me."

She cupped his handsome face with her soft hands. "It wasn't your fault."

"You darling!" he said passionately.

Miss Hargrave rapped on the door before she entered.

"There's a phone call for you, Mr. Allen."

"I'll be right back," he promised as he rose to leave the room.

Miss Hargrave's eyes were riveted to the square-cut diamond ring.

"How perfectly gorgeous," she cried, seizing her patient's hand to examine the magnificent jewel more closely.

"Isn't it lovely?" Doris said rapturously.

"You know," the nurse said, watching the diamond's blue fire flash in the sunlight, "this is like a movie. It's almost too good to be true."

Apprehension swept like an icy wind over Doris. "Don't say that," she said sharply. "Don't ever say that again!"

BRIGHT COLORS LURE TURKEYS

FORT WORTH, Tex.— (U.P.) — The way to raise healthy turkeys is to treat them like they were high school sophomores.

Sophomores like loud colors. So do turkeys,, says H. H. Weatherby, poultry husbandman of the Texas A. & M. college extension service.

Speaking at a poultry rally recently in Arlington, Texas, he recommended that bright-colored marbles be placed in Mr. Gobbler's feed.

Fascinated by the marbles, the turkeys will peck madly and "consume a quantity of body-building food they otherwise would not get," Weatherby said.

FORMER MANSFIELDER WEDS COLUMBUS GIRL

Formal Ceremony Held Aug. 2 In Akron for Miss Margaret E. Backus of Columbus and Russell W. Shryock.

ANNOUNCEMENTS are being received here of the marriage of Miss Margaret E. Backus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Backus of Cuyahoga Falls, and Russell W. Shryock, of Columbus, former Mansfield resident, and son of Hoyt Shryock, 157 Arthur avenue. The formal service was solemnized on Saturday, Aug. 2, before the altar of the Bethany Lutheran church in Akron, Rev. Bostrum officiated for the single ring service read in the evening.

Miss Backus, given in mariage by her fother, wore a wedding gown of white dotted Swiss made Princess style. The frock was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and a full skirt made into a long train. She also wore lace mitts and her circular style fingertip veil was fastened in the front of the cap with white gladioli tips. Her only jewelry was a necklace which was given to her mother at the time of her wedding. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and white roses.

Miss Edith Anderson was maid of honor, wearing an eggshell dotted Swiss made similarly to that of the bride's gown. She carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses and wore red glad tips in her hair. Miss Eleanor Donaldson and Mrs. Ernest Johnson were the bridesmaids. Their frocks were the same style and color as Miss Anderson's. They also carried Colonial bouquets of red roses. The bride's twin sisters, Betty and Alice Backus, served as junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were floor length of white dotted Swiss made like the other attendants. They also carried red roses. The young women all wore pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride.

John Mabee of Mansfield, brother-ni-law of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Marion Hetler of Mansfield, also a brother-in-law, and Ernest Johnson.

Mrs. Backus appeared at her daughter's wedding in a blue silk jersey frock and wore a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. John Mabee, sister of the groom, wore a black and white gown and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Hetler, also a sister, wore a red and white frock and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for 125 relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. The home was decorated with bouquets of white summer flowers and lighted tapers. A three tiered wedding cake centered the serving table.

Later in the day the couple left for their new home. They are residing at 638 Maynard avenue, Columbus. Mr. Shryock is employed in the accounting department of the Commercial Motor Freight company in Columbus and is also a senior student at Ohio State university. He was graduated from Springfield township high school.

Mrs. Shryock has been employed in the state department of liquor control in Columbus.

Those attending the wedding from Mansfield were Mr. Hoyt Shryock, Mr. and Mrs. John Mabee, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hetler, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hout, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Murphy, Ray Shryock, George Meyers and W. H. Shryock.

England's gasoline ration now permits the ordinary driver to travel approximately 200 miles a month.

Pre-Nuptial Honor Given Tuesday for Evelyn Murphy

Another of Mansfield's honored brides-elect is Miss Evelyn Murphy, who will wed Harry Oster, jr., this month. Twelve guests were present and presented Miss Murphy with a shower of bathroom gifts. Appropriate for the occasion was the clever centerpiece designed by the hostess. A tiny doll in a cellophane shower centered the table when refreshments were served. Dry ice in water caused steam which made the scene look most realistic. Appointments were in green and white for the buffet table.

Mrs. Gretchen Hammond of Sandusky was the only out-of-town guests present. On Friday evening Mrs. Clifford Forsythe, Woodward avenue, will be hostess for a party in honor of Miss Murphy.

Oily Hair Can Be Bane Or Blessing

Oily hair can either be a bane or a blessing, and it is up to you which you shall choose, thanks to modern science. If nature has been generous in supplying your locks with what you bemoan as an excessive supply of oil, you are really more fortunate than the girl with not enough, for you have only one small problem and she has many.

Oil makes for healthiness and gloss of the hair, but it may also be a stepping stone to dandruff if not kept scrupluously clean. Your solution, therefore, is frequent lathering with a liquid soapless shampoo that will heighten that natural gloss already bestowed upon you to 33 per cent more lustre than any other preparation.

Brushing too oily hair, also, helps you to lovely, shining tresses much more quickly than if your hair were dry. So, brush faithfully every day and use the soapless shampoo, which, incidentally, comes for too oily or too dry scalps, at least twice a week.

If you still cling to that old-fashioned school of thought which maintains that keeping your scalp from water as long as possible is good for the hair, hear what dermatologists have to say in the matter. They declare that hair should be washed whenever it is dirty and add the encouraging information that frequent shampooing, in removing the dirt, grease and grime improves the circulation and makes for healthier and more abundant hair.

So there! Let that transform you from a die-hard who thinks she has an insoluble problem on her hands to a modern optimist always ready to go all out for beauty. You can start at once on a regimen for glamour and all you need are determination, a good hair brush and liquid soapless shampoo. You don't even have to stick to a rigid bi-weekly washing, but you must listen when your beauty conscience tells you that your locks are grimy, sticky, unmanageable and, consequently, unsightly. Then it's a liquid soapless shampoo for you before you try that darling new hat or intriguing new hair-do.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The reaction from raging fury is usually pitiable weakness of both brain and body, and I was not surprised to see Noel slump against the back of his chair in utter exhaustion when he had made his apology to me.

His eyes closed as if to shut out hateful mental imagery, and did not open even at the assurance I had given him. But I believed that he had heard it, and my conviction was confirmed when, a few seconds later, he opened his eyes and looked at me with sanity instead of mania in his expression.

"I do believe you, Aunt Madge," he said, "even though I was told by someone—watching for me—that he came in here, and did not come out again, I know, of course, that Mary has been here off and on all evening, and I thought—I thought—"

"That she was making, or keeping, a rendezvous with Redfield here—in my suite?" I queried, purposely putting infinite scorn into my voice. "Surely, Noel, you did not think that, even if you did stoop to having someone spy upon my apartment for you."

Noel Is Contrite.

He put his face in his hands, while an ashamed groan escaped him. I was not any too happy myself. Indeed, I felt like imitating his moan, for I was conscious of gross deceit upon my own part.

True, Mary had not been keeping an appointment with Redfield, nor had he sought one—I had told Noel the truth on those counts—but when I had assured the frantic young husband that his wife and Redfield had not seen each other, I had been "stretching the truth until it cracked," even while theatrically resenting Noel's implied doubt of me.

But, I consoled myself, I had had no other course. Noel was in so murderous a mood that any means of stopping him was necessary—and warranted. But my literal Puritan conscience was flagellating me, nevertheless, when Noel lifted his tortured face from his hands, and looked steadily at me.

"I would believe you, Aunt Madge, against the evidence of my own eyes and ears," he said extravagantly, but with so sincere a ring of truth in his words that another shamed wave of contrition swept over me.

There was nothing I could do about it, however, for I knew Mary would be at the outside door presently, and I must get Noel in a tractable and reasonable mood before her arrival.

"Then, dear boy, I want you to listen to me, giving me your undivided attention for a few minutes," I said. "There are things which I must say to you—vital things which, if you heed them, may mean the salvage of your marriage from the wreck for which—forgive me for saying this—it appears to be headed."

"You are fully justified in saying that," he said dispiritedly. "A wreck. That is all that is left of our marriage."

"I said 'appears,' not 'is,' Noel," I told him, " and if you will, you can save your marital happiness."

"But what about Mary?" he queried, and there was justifiable resentment in his voice. "I've been a jealous beast, I know, but—"

"But apparently, you have had ample reason for your jealousy," I retorted coolly, and he stared at me.

Quiets Noel's Fears.

"You admit that," he said, incredulously, and with his anger plainly ready to break out again.

"Please, Noel!" I said with uplifted hand. "Again I have used the word 'apparently,' and I must beg of you to let me explain my meaning."

"I'm sorry," he said, and settled back in his chair. "I promise I won't interrupt you again."

I wanted to say caustically, "I trust you won't," but instead, I looked at him steadily, and spoke with emphasis and conviction.

"Before I tell you the reasons for my assertions," I said, "I want you to know that Mary loves you as she always has, and despises Stephen Redfield."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ENTRIES ON DEFENSE

Before trying to set up a trick in a particular suit, when you are on the defensive, it pays you to do just what you often do as declarer—count up to see if you have enough entries to cash the trick, once it is established. When you find that the case, you can sometimes afford to exert yourself to develop even a third-round or later trick somewhere, perhaps the one additional trick needed to set the contract.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♥
2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Dbl.

That doubler was a chap who knows his defensive bridge—Timothy E. Benitz, official scorer of New York's Inter-Club Contract league, who now is one of his Uncle Sam's trainees in the Harbor Defense arm of the service. When his partner led the club K, he did some neat counting.

A spade lead on the second trick followed by his winning the expected trump return, which he could win, then by another spade to the fourth trick and his winning of another trump, would put him in position to cash the setting third-round spade, if South had that many spades, as seemed likely. Not sure that his partner would notice a discouraging signal of the club 2 and switch to a spade, he made sure by overtaking the K with his club A, and firing back the spade Q.

The declarer was canny, too. Seeing what Private Benitz was trying, he won the spade Q with the A, sent the heart J through to the Q and, when the spade 10 came back to the A, quit leading trumps and led diamonds. The 3 to the K, then the A and the 6 to the Q would have saved the day for South if East had as many as three diamonds. On the fourth one from dummy, East's ruff with the heart A could have brought a discard of South's losing spade. But Mr. Benitz had only two diamonds, so ruffed the third with his heart A and cashed the spade J for the setting trick.

If clubs had been repeated to the second trick, trumps could have been taken out and the losing spade discarded on the fourth diamond. Mr. Benitz had to institute his plan at the very earliest opportunity to make it succeed.

What is the best defense by West on this deal in an effort to beat South's 5-Hearts which he had doubled?

COUNCIL GRANTS PERMISSION TO BUILD BARRACKS

Puts OK on Housing Plan For Pilots at Airport; Approves Other Bills.

Permission to erect barracks and additional hangars on the Mansfield municipal airport was allowed James R. (Bud) Harrington, airport manager, last night at the monthly meeting of city council.

Council granted Harrington the permit so that he could provide housing accommodations for 12 advanced civilian pilots taking a 17-weeks' flying course at the airport from which they will graduate as military flight instructors and commercial pilots.

The barracks will be of a rustic log cabin style and will be located near the roadside park constructed by the state highway department at the west end of the port recently. Council also revoked the use of 200 feet of airport property which the state did not include in the park. The land had been originally turned over for inclusion in the roadside project.

Council also:

1. Named the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank as the city's official depository for a two-year period starting Sept. 2 with $75,000 in inactive and $150,000 in active city funds.

2 Authorized Service-Safety Director C M. Crafton to call for bids on the construction of eight new storm sewers at a total cost of $15,000.

3. Cancelled appropriations totalling $4,750 no longer needed for their designated use. The transfer included $3,750 back from the police salary fund to the general fund and $1,000 from the Bowman street bridge fund to the five-sixths gas tax fund.

4. Authorized the purchase of $1,400 worth of waterpipe to be used in later projects. The purchase will be made now to avoid higher prices and delay in getting the pipe because of defense orders.

5. Transferred $1,550 from the general, sanitary sewer garbage and five-sixth gas tax funds to pay for the differences in increased salaries granted at the July meeting

6 Authorized the borrowing of $18,900 to cover the cost of constructing sanitary sewers on Fifth avenue for $1,300 and at Poplar street and Sloane avenue for $2,100 and for grading and paving Wood street for $14,500. The money will be borrowed in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to cover the cost and the collection of assessments from the owners of property abutting the improvements.

'FIND OLGA FOR ME' IMPLORES SOLDIER IN LETTER TO POLICE

Mansfield police were asked to play the role of Dan Cupid today by an army private from Fort Bragg, N C who asked that they locate a Mansfield girl he met in a Washington, D C railroad station several weeks ago

The private attached to the fort's military police division, wrote "it is imperative that you locate her so that I can write to her I know you will not fail me"

Police Chief Meade K Bates and his men took very lightly however, the soldier's urgings that they "canvass all Slavish districts of the city to find Olga" since the city has no such districts.

The apparently enamoured private wrote that the object of his affection is five feet, nine inches; weighs 120 pounds, has brown eyes and hair, wears glasses, has a "pleasing personality and nice smile" and is of Slavish extraction.

The Fort Bragg MP met his Olga while waiting for a train at the Washington station. In a short time he learned all about her except her address.

Holds Gibraltar Can't Be Taken By Armed Action

Conditions in Spain following the civil war, and some idea of the strength of the Rock of Gibraltar furnished the basis of a talk given at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club by Dr. Frank B Bostwick, of Coshocton, who practiced dentistry in Gibraltar and Tangier for a number of years

Dr. Bostwick expressed belief that while the city of Gibraltar might be destroyed by enemy attack, the actual Rock of Gibraltar, with its command of the straits passage into the Mediterranean, has attained such defensive strength that its capture would be impossible.

Thomas J. Hanley was program chairman of the meeting at which William C Mead, club president, presided. Group singing was directed by William J. Russell, with Maurice Stretch as pianist.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The people of this country have cause to rejoice that their president has the opportunity now to cruise in privacy for ten days, cut off from all contacts he does not desire and the good sense to use that opportunity.

In the Kilkenny cat-fight going on in Washington in the vast un-coordinated defense organization it would be a marvel if a man with the consideration of the president for his personal friends and his hatred of family wrangles could get any repose of mind or body in the midst of the Banshee wailings and the swift and lethal clawing of the cats.

In one manner of approach, it is his own fault. He simply has to be on terms of a good deal of personal intimacy—a first name basis—with the people with whom he works. Tom, Dick and Harry are all Tom, Dick and Harry to him even in the most critical official conferences. That may be in part what is the matter with things.

Too many people come personally to the president with one side of controversies that ought to be ironed out in the organizational wringer in two-sided face-to-face debate long before they reach the president's desk.

The most encouraging thing I know to write about today is the certainty that the president himself has recognized that this is public problem No. 1, that it must be solved quickly and efficiently, and that to solve it he has to get away from the area of personal conflict and reach a decision.

Too many evidences of silly conflict have come recently to minimize the gravity of all this.

In charity, one should assume that surprise decisions to cut off all Japanese silk overnight and throw 175,000 bread-winners for about 750,000 people out of work had been reached in common council with all affected agencies—state, war, navy, agriculture, OPM, OPACS, Jesse Jones and so forth. One perhaps should assume the same of the similar shock decisions to cut automobile production 50 per cent and Eastern Gas Consumption 33⅓ per cent at a single slash and throw millions more of workers and dependents back into despair.

One can't assume too far, because it is perfectly apparent that no such cohesion existed as between OPACS and OPM in the automobile case.

It is apparent that nobody in this shinly of slashing is representing the interests of the little fellow in business, the civilian population or the real and essential interest of labor.

Of the silk decree it is usually said, "Oh, American women can go without silk stockings." So they can, but as a result of this unplanned, unpredicted action, rayon is too scare to serve as a substitute, nylon production has not been sufficiently advanced.

It is the poor gal who is going to pay for this—and not get the stockings she needs, either—just as it is the little business fellow who is going bankrupt and the employes of both big and little fellows who are going to be hit.

Economic blockade works both ways. It is a dangerous operation. When all this is over our mills will not be able to handle silk. It takes different machinery. Our export cotton market will be gone. Many substitutes will appear and the world and its commerce will be still further locked in water-tight trade compartments such as ruined world commerce from 1918 onward.

Some of it is necessary, but I think the president at last is aware that it can't be entrusted to separate prima donnas of the amateur variety with no sufficient organization.

HOLD SUSPECT IN ATTACK ON SCHOOL GIRL, 17

Police Say Ex-Convict Admits Abducting Celina Girl 10 Days Ago.

CELINA —(AP)— A 26-year-old man who Sheriff Bruce Barber said admitted that he abducted a Celina high school girl and her escort 10 days ago was held in the Mercer county jail today.

Arrested in Hamilton early yesterday, he was returned here late last night. No charge has been filed, the sheriff said, pending a conference today with Prosecutor Kanpke.

Barber said that the man was released last spring from a prison at Jackson, Mich., where he served a term for auto theft, and that he was wanted in Defiance and Putnam counties for larceny, and in Adams county, Ind., for auto theft.

Miss Betty Hauk, 17, and Urban Kaup, 18, were accosted by a man as they sat in an automobile in Celina July 29 and forced to drive to a rural district near Coldwater, where Kaup was tied in a corncrib. Barber said that Miss Hauk told him the abductor later raped her and returned her to Celina. Kaup's automobile was located at Decatur, Ind., a day later.

Barber said that the suspect admitted abducting the two and taking the automobile, but denied assaulting the girl.

The man was arrested, the sheriff said, after Hamilton police spotted a stolen automobile he was driving. Night Chief of Police Byron Furginson said at Hamilton that several rifles, shotguns and ammunition were found in the suspect's room and that he admitted taking them from various western Ohio resorts.

Shortly before Barber and other officers were ready to return the man here, he pulled a pistol from a hiding place in his clothing and gave it up.

"I was going to use it to escape if only one man took me back," Barber quoted him as saying, "but I changed my mind when I saw there were three of them."

Carlton Fernyak tells this parking meter story: A woman driving a car with Pennsylvania license parked on West Third street and, after examining the meter carefully and looking to see that there were no officers around, went into a restaurant without dropping a coin in the meter. She came back in about an hour, found there was no traffic ticket on her car, dropped a nickel in the meter, turned the indicator to the hour's parking time, and drove away. Fernyak thinks the nickel was to show her appreciation for not being tagged.

The old battle between the Navy and the Marine Corps crops up again in Mansfield. For the last month W. G. Cox, Mansfield naval recruiting officer, has been snapping his fingers at the Marine song which says that if the army or navy ever gets to Heaven they will find the golden streets guarded by Marines. But today the Marines served notice. They are landing in Mansfield on Aug. 15 to solicit recruits and they are going to work out of Cox's office. Post office employes venture the opinion that on Aug. 13 and 14 Cox is going to work so hard every Mansfield male who can sit up and take nourishment will be enlisted in the Navy and there won't be any left for the Marines.

State highway patrolmen are telling this one on the motorist whose car was wrecked on a county road a short time ago. After surveying the wreckage, the driver decided it might be wise to get rid of a quantity of beer bottles, some full and some empty, in the car. He began stowing them rapidly under the seat. So engrossed was he in the job that he merely said "Thanks" when someone came up to hold a flashlight for him. When he turned to look at his helper he discovered a highway patrolman holding the light and quietly counting the evidence.

PLAN TO POLL MEMBERS ON WAGE DEMAND

Carriers Claim Increase Would Boost Annual Payroll $900,000,000.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Machinery was put in motion today for a strike vote among the nation's 1,150,000 railroad workers following rejection of their demands for wage increases which railroad management has estimated would total $900,000,000 annually.

The strike vote was authorized by officials of the 19 railroad unions late yesterday when the railroad management committee with which they had been negotiating declared the carriers could not grant the requeste pay increases.

First to authorize a strike vote were the 14 non-operating railway unions, representing 800,000 maintenance workers, telegraphers, machinists and similar employes. These unions seek 30 to 35 cents an hour increases. A short time later, spokesmen for the five operating brotherhoods announced similar action. The brotherhoods demand a 30 per cent increase for their 350,000 members.

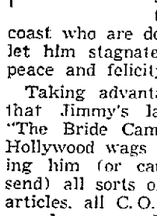
Union leaders said from 20 to 30 days will be required to complete the strike vote, and while representatives of both union groups said they would not ask for intervention by the national railway mediation board in the dispute, it appeared probable the mediation board would intervene if a strike is authorized. Under the railway labor act, the mediation board is empowered to intervene if it sees fit.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook.

FROM up Bedford village way to Lindy's on Broadway has percolated a tale about the irrepressible James Cagney and a mild little adventure he is supposed to have had in the rural regions.



Jimmy is vacationing at Martha's Vineyard, which is his and Mrs. C.'s idea of heaven, but recently he has been bothered some by waggish friends on the coast who are determined not to let him stagnate there in utter peace and felicity.

Taking advantage of the fact that Jimmy's latest picture is "The Bride Came C. O. D.," the Hollywood wags have been sending him (or causing others to send) all sorts of sundry useless articles, all C. O. D. Every time a package came, James could hear laughter echoing from the Brown Derby.

Well, it chanced, so the story goes that Jimmy got pretty tired of the gag and wished never again to see the initials C. O. D. even on a legitimate package sent by his wife from the local couturiers. So he motored down to Bedford village to spend a quiet couple of days away from the messenger boys.

On his first evening at the inn there he found he had forgotten to pack an extra shirt, or socks, or some article of haberdashery, so he sent out to one of the village stores for it.

It arrived, in short order, marked: C. O. D.

The seemingly coincidental flights to the coast of young Gloria Vanderbilt, jr., and young Fletcher Godfrey have caused such a flutter in cafe society circles and such a wave of dizzy speculation, that I suppose it is time someone straightened out the facts in the case if only to prove that there is nothing like a good honest fact.

THE CHARACTERS: Miss Gloria Vanderbilt, jr., a subdeb.

Mr. Fletcher Godfrey, a young man. Mr. Geoffrey Jones, another young man.

WHAT HAPPENED: Mr. Geoffrey Jones, who had been dating Miss Vanderbilt steadily, to put it mildly, went into the army. Miss Vanderbilt went to California to visit her mother. Mr. Godfrey, a good friend of Mr. Jones and a good friend of Miss Vanderbilt, went to California the next day.

THE RESULTING GOSSIP: The Stork club, Armando's and other haunts of the younger set were rife with chatter. The versions varied, but the story boiled down to these essentials: Mr. Jones and Miss Vanderbilt had been unofficially engaged. Mr. Jones had gone into the army. Mr. Geoffrey had "moved in." Miss Vanderbilt had gone to Hollywood. Mr Godfrey had pursued her to woo her. Mr. Jones was out. Mr. Godfrey was in. Miss Vanderbilt was liable to elope with Mr. Godfrey any minute.

THE UNEXCITING TRUTH: Mr. Jones did not introduce Mr. Godfrey to Miss Vanderbilt. Au contrairie, Mr. Godfrey introduced Mr. Jones to Miss Vanderbilt. Mr. Godfrey and Miss Vanderbilt have been close friends for years, chiefly because her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and his aunt, Mrs. Cortland Schuyler Van Rennssalear, were bosom friends.

Mr. Godfrey did not go to California to woo Miss Vanderbilt. He went to woo a job in the Lockheed airplane factory. Failing this, he took a job in a Los Angeles clothing business, where he is doing what he formerly was doing in New York—selling gentlemen's apparel.

It is not true that, speaking of Miss Vanderbilt's affections, Mr. Godfrey is "in" and Mr. Jones is "out." At the moment they are both "out." Another gentleman, a coast gentleman, is in.

GALION—Frederick W. Biehl, 68, former Galion mayor and secretary and vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan company, died at City hospital, Tuesday at 6 p. m. Hospital attendants said a heart attack caused his death.

A lifelong resident of Galion, Mr. Biehl began working with the Erie railroad company here at the age of 14, and continued with the company until the division was moved to Marion in 1913. He then became interested in insurance and formed a partnership with the late Jay Bachelder. When it was federalized on Sept. 1, 1935, he was made secretary, vice president, and director, and served in this capacity until his death.

He was also a director of the First National Bank at the time of his death, and only recently resigned his chairmanship of the Crawford County Draft board because of ill health.

Mr. Biehl was a member of the various Masonic organizations, including the Aladdin Shrine of Columbus, and of the Galion Lodge of Elks.

Active in various organizations and as a civic leader, Mr. Biehl served two terms as mayor during the first World war; in 1931 he acted as chairman for the Galion Centennial celebration. At one time he was president of the old Chamber of Commerce.

BLAMES CITY WELLS FOR DROP IN WATER SUPPLY AT LEXINGTON

Pointing out that the sinking of two Mansfield wells for water near Lexington may have interferred with that villages supply, Mayor J. Richard Gore of Lexington asked city council to grant a request that this city sell it water.

Gore said that several Lexington residents felt that the drilling of the city's No. 6 and 7 wells near the village well ruined its ability to supply sufficient water for village uses.

The Lexington mayor said that the village had drilled a seven-inch well about ten years ago and was able to get about 250 gallons a minute out of it. After the drilling of Mansfield's No. 6 well, however, Gore said the Lexington supply dropped to only 50 gallons a minute.

With the sinking of No. 7 well, the Lexington well had to be abandoned except for emergency use, according to Gore and the village has been relying upon a three-inch auxiliary well which, he says, cannot possibly supply enough water for the village.

Gore said that the state health department had advised that Lexington drill a new well only 200 yards from Mansfield's No. 7 well. The Lexington mayor believed this would be too costly for the village and asked that council consider supplying water to Lexington from Well No. 7.

Lexington would need only 4,900,000 gallons a year while the city pumps almost 4,000,000 daily. Gore said that the village used only about 100,000 gallons a day.

ALLOWS CLAIMS

Council Pays Damages to Two Motorists at Session.

Betty Richey, 315 Sturges avenue was allowed $7 for damages to her auto caused when she struck an open ditch on West Dickson avenue on March 5. Miss Richey had originally asked $17.50 but agreed to settle for the smaller amount.

Court attaches said the defendants would be notified by the sheriff to pay the taxes and penalties which the state contends have not been accounted for.

CHECK NAMES ON LOAN PETITIONS

Election Board Studies 2,300 Signatures In County.

County election board workers today were checking 2,382 signatures on 44 initiative petitions circulated in Richland county in behalf of the proposed bill to reduce the interest rate on small loans.

The petitions were sent here by the secretary of state for the election board to check on the addresses of signers. Clerk Philip Wolfe of the election board said. Only the signatures of eligible voters in the county will be qualified.

The measure would license small loan operators and limit the interest rate on loans up to $300 to two and one-half per cent instead of the present three per cent.

Capt. Frank A. Ray, construction quartermaster at Plum Brook, said that unless carpenters returned to work at once construction work on the TNT plant would be halted tonight and work on a similar unit and a boilerhouse would stop Thursday.

COUNCIL GRANTS PERMISSION TO BUILD BARRACKS

Puts OK on Housing Plan For Pilots at Airport; Approves Other Bills.

Permission to erect barracks and additional hangars on the Mansfield municipal airport was allowed James R. (Bud) Harrington, airport manager, last night at the monthly meeting of city council.

Council granted Harrington the permit so that he could provide housing accommodations for 12 advanced civilian pilots taking a 17-weeks' flying course at the airport from which they will graduate as military flight instructors and commercial pilots.

The barracks will be of a rustic log cabin style and will be located near the roadside park constructed by the state highway department at the west end of the port recently. Council also revoked the use of 200 feet of airport property which the state did not include in the park. The land had been originally turned over for inclusion in the roadside project.

Council also:

1. Named the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank as the city's official depository for a two-year period starting Sept. 2 with $75,000 in inactive and $150,000 in active city funds

2 Authorized Service-Safety Director C M Crafton to call for bids on the construction of eight new storm sewers at a total cost of $15,000.

3. Cancelled appropriations totalling $4,750 no longer needed for their designated use. The transfer included $3,750 back from the police salary fund to the general fund and $1,000 from the Bowman street bridge fund to the five-sixths gas tax fund

4. Authorized the purchase of $1,400 worth of waterpipe to be used in later projects. The purchase will be made now to avoid higher prices and delay in getting the pipe because of defense orders.

5. Transferred $1,550 from the general, sanitary sewer garbage and five-sixth gas tax funds to pay for the differences in increased salaries granted at the July meeting

6 Authorized the borrowing of $18,900 to cover the cost of constructing sanitary sewers on Fifth avenue for $1,300 and at Poplar street and Sloane avenue for $3,100 and for grading and paving Wood street for $14,500. The money will be borrowed in anticipation of the issuance of bonds to cover the cost and the collection of assessments from the owners of property abutting the improvements.

'FIND OLGA FOR ME' IMPLORES SOLDIER IN LETTER TO POLICE

Mansfield police were asked to play the role of Dan Cupid today by an army private from Fort Bragg, N C., who asked that they locate a Mansfield girl he met in a Washington D C railroad station several weeks ago

The private, attached to the fort's military police division, wrote "it is imperative that you locate her so that I can write to her. I know you will not fail me."

Police Chief Meade K Bates and his men took very lightly however, the soldier's urgings that they 'canvass all Slavish districts of the city to find Olga,' since the city has no such districts

The apparently enamoured private wrote that the object of his affection is five feet, nine inches; weighs 120 pounds, has brown eyes and hair, wears glasses, has a "pleasing personality and nice smile" and is of Slavish extraction.

The Fort Bragg MP met his Olga while waiting for a train at the Washington station In a short time he learned all about her except her address

Holds Gibraltar Can't Be Taken By Armed Action

Conditions in Spain following the civil war, and some idea of the strength of the Rock of Gibraltar furnished the basis of a talk given at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club by Dr. Frank B Bostwick, of Coshocton, who practiced dentistry in Gibraltar and Tangier for a number of years.

Dr. Bostwick expressed belief that while the city of Gibraltar might be destroyed by enemy attack, the actual Rock of Gibraltar, with its command of the straits passage into the Mediterranean, has attained such defensive strength that its capture would be impossible.

Thomas J. Hanley was program chairman of the meeting at which William C. Mead, club president, presided. Group singing was directed by William J. Russell, with Maurice Stretch as pianist.

Rail Unions Prepare for Strike Vote

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The people of this country have cause to rejoice that their president has the opportunity now to cruise in privacy for ten days, cut off from all contacts he does not desire and the good sense to use that opportunity.

In the Kilkenny cat-fight going on in Washington in the vast un-co-ordinated defense organization it would be a marvel if a man with the consideration of the president for his personal friends and his hatred of family wrangles could get any repose of mind or body in the midst of the Banshee wailings and the swift and lethal clawing of the cats.

In one manner of approach, it is his own fault. He simply has to be on terms of a good deal of personal intimacy—a first name basis—with the people with whom he works. Tom, Dick and Harry are all Tom, Dick and Harry to him even in the most critical official conferences. That may be in part what is the matter with things.

Too many people come personally to the president with one side of controversies that ought to be ironed out in the organizational wringer in two-sided face-to-face debate long before they reach the president's desk.

The most encouraging thing I know to write about today is the certainty that the president himself has recognized that this is public problem No. 1, that it must be solved quickly and efficiently, and that to solve it he has to get away from the area of personal conflict and reach a decision.

Too many evidences of silly conflict have come recently to minimize the gravity of all this.

In charity, one should assume that surprise decisions to cut off all Japanese silk overnight and throw 175,000 bread-winners for about 750,000 people out of work had been reached in common council with all affected agencies—state, war, navy, agriculture, OPM, OPACS, Jesse Jones and so forth. One perhaps should assume the same of the similar shock decisions to cut automobile production 50 per cent and Eastern Gas Consumption 33⅓ per cent at a single slash and throw millions more of workers and dependents back into despair.

One can't assume too far, because it is perfectly apparent that no such cohesion existed as between OPACS and OPM in the automobile case.

It is apparent that nobody in this shinly of slashing is representing the interests of the little fellow in business, the civilian population or the real and essential interest of labor.

Of the silk decree it is usually said, "Oh, American women can go without silk stockings." So they can, but as a result of this unplanned, unpredicted action, rayon is too scare to serve as a substitute, nylon production has not been sufficiently advanced

It is the poor gal who is going to pay for this—and not get the stockings she needs, either—just as it is the little business fellow who is going bankrupt and the employes of both big and little fellows who are going to be hit.

Economic blockade works both ways. It is a dangerous operation. When all this is over our mills will not be able to handle silk. It takes different machinery. Our export cotton market will be gone. Many substitutes will appear and the world and its commerce will be still further locked in water-tight trade compartments such as ruined world commerce from 1918 onward.

Some of it is necessary, but I think the president at last is aware that it can't be entrusted to separate prima donnas of the amateur variety with no sufficient organization.

HOLD SUSPECT IN ATTACK ON SCHOOL GIRL, 17

Police Say Ex-Convict Admits Abducting Celina Girl 10 Days Ago.

CELINA —(AP)— A 26-year-old man who Sheriff Bruce Barber said admitted that he abducted a Celina high school girl and her escort 10 days ago was held in the Mercer county jail today.

Arrested in Hamilton early yesterday, he was returned here late last night. No charge has been filed, the sheriff said, pending a conference today with Prosecutor Kanpke.

Barber said that the man was released last spring from a prison at Jackson, Mich., where he served a term for auto theft, and that he was wanted in Defiance and Putnam counties for larceny, and in Adams county, Ind., for auto theft.

Miss Betty Hauk, 17, and Urban Kaup, 18, were accosted by a man as they sat in an automobile in Celina July 29 and forced to drive to a rural district near Coldwater, where Kaup was tied in a corncrib. Barber said that Miss Hauk told him the abductor later raped her and returned her to Celina. Kaup's automobile was located at Decatur, Ind., a day later.

Barber said that the suspect admitted abducting the two and taking the automobile, but denied assaulting the girl.

The man was arrested, the sheriff said, after Hamilton police spotted a stolen automobile he was driving. Night Chief of Police Byron Furginson said at Hamilton that several rifles, shotguns and ammunition were found in the suspect's room and that he admitted taking them from various western Ohio resorts.

Shortly before Barber and other officers were ready to return the man here, he pulled a pistol from a hiding place in his clothing and gave it up.

"I was going to use it to escape if only one man took me back," Barber quoted him as saying, "but I changed my mind when I saw there were three of them."

Carlton Fernyak tells this parking meter story: A woman driving a car with Pennsylvania license parked on West Third street and, after examining the meter carefully and looking to see that there were no officers around, went into a restaurant without dropping a coin in the meter. She came back in about an hour, found there was no traffic ticket on her car, dropped a nickel in the meter, turned the indicator to the hour's parking time, and drove away. Fernyak thinks the nickel was to show her appreciation for not being tagged.

The old battle between the Navy and the Marine Corps crops up again in Mansfield. For the last month W. G. Cox, Mansfield naval recruiting officer, has been snapping his fingers at the Marine song which says that if the army or navy ever gets to Heaven they will find the golden streets guarded by Marines. But today the Marines served notice. They are landing in Mansfield on Aug. 15 to solicit recruits and they are going to work out of Cox's office. Post office employes venture the opinion that on Aug. 13 and 14 Cox is going to work so hard every Mansfield male who can sit up and take nourishment will be enlisted in the Navy and there won't be any left for the Marines.

State highway patrolmen are telling this one on the motorist whose car was wrecked on a county road a short time ago. After surveying the wreckage, the driver decided it might be wise to get rid of a quantity of beer bottles, some full and some empty, in the car. He began stowing them rapidly under the seat. So engrossed was he in the job that he merely said "Thanks" when someone came up to hold a flashlight for him. When he turned to look at his helper he discovered a highway patrolman holding the light and quietly counting the evidence.

PLAN TO POLL MEMBERS ON WAGE DEMAND

Carriers Claim Increase Would Boost Annual Payroll $900,000,000.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Machinery was put in motion today for a strike vote among the nation's 1,150,000 railroad workers following rejection of their demands for wage increases which railroad management has estimated would total $900,000,000 annually.

The strike vote was authorized by officials of the 19 railroad unions late yesterday when the railroad management committee with which they had been negotiating declared the carriers could not grant the requeste pay increases.

First to authorize a strike vote were the 14 non-operating railway unions, representing 800,000 maintenance workers, telegraphers, machinists and similar employes. These unions seek 30 to 36 cents an hour increases. A short time later, spokesmen for the five operating brotherhoods announced similar action. The brotherhoods demand a 30 per cent increase for their 350,000 members.

Union leaders said from 20 to 30 days will be required to complete the strike vote, and while representatives of both union groups said they would not ask for intervention by the national railway mediation board in the dispute, it appeared probable the mediation board would intervene if a strike is authorized. Under the railway labor act, the mediation board is empowered to intervene if it sees fit.

Ask Protection for Aluminum Workers

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Non-union and A. F. of L. employes of the Aluminum Company of America plant at Newburgh Heights today were expected to receive police protection in their attempt to get by a CIO dues collection picket line and report to work.

Mayor Frank Ptak of Newburgh Heights said the three-man suburban police force could not afford adequate protection and indicated he would call on the sheriff's office for assistance.

Thomas A. Lenehan, A. F. of L. head in Cleveland, returned from a state convention last night and indicated he would also take steps to protect the interests of fellow unionists who are employed in the plant.

Work Stoppage Looms At Plum Brook

SANDUSKY — (INS) — Virtual stoppage of construction work at the $40,000,000 Plum Brook ordnance works loomed today after initial negotiations failed to settle a strike of 675 A. F. of L. carpenters seeking higher wages.

Capt. Frank A. Ray, construction quartermaster at Plum Brook, said that unless carpenters returned to work at once construction work on the TNT plant would be halted tonight and work on a similar unit and a boilerhouse would stop Thursday.

Mansfield Camera Fans See Exhibit Of Prize-Winners

John Peck, of LaFayette, La., showed salon prize winning pictures at a meeting of the Mansfield Photographic society last night in the club rooms at the Farmers Bank building.

Peck gave a short talk regarding the various pictures explaining the background and problems involved in each exposure.

Al Strachan showed colored pictures of Ohio roadside parks and the Great Smoky mountains in the east during the meeting which was highlighted by a salon exhibit of 30 pictures by Mansfielders.

A new member, Dale Arnold, was taken into the society at the meeting. The next session of the group will be held Aug. 19.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook.

FROM up Bedford village way to Lindy's on Broadway has percolated a tale about the irrepressible James Cagney and a mild little adventure he is supposed to have had in the rural regions. Jimmy is vacationing at Martha's Vineyard, which is his and Mrs. C.'s idea of heaven, but recently he has been bothered some by waggish friends on the coast who are determined not to let him stagnate there in utter peace and felicity.

Taking advantage of the fact that Jimmy's latest picture is "The Bride Came C. O. D.," the Hollywood wags have been sending him (or causing others to send) all sorts of sundry useless articles, all C. O. D. Every time a package came, James could hear laughter echoing from the Brown Derby.

Well, it chanced, so the story goes that Jimmy got pretty tired of the gag and wished never again to see the initials C. O. D. even on a legitimate package sent by his wife from the local couturiers. So he motored down to Bedford village to spend a quiet couple of days away from the messenger boys.

On his first evening at the inn there he found he had forgotten to pack an extra shirt, or socks, or some article of haberdashery, so he sent out to one of the village stores for it.

It arrived, in short order, marked: C. O. D.

The seemingly coincidental flights to the coast of young Gloria Vanderbilt, jr., and young Fletcher Godfrey have caused such a flutter in cafe society circles and such a wave of dizzy speculation, that I suppose it is time someone straightened out the facts in the case if only to prove that there is nothing like a good honest fact.

THE CHARACTERS: Miss Gloria Vanderbilt, jr., a subdeb.

Mr. Fletcher Godfrey, a young man. Mr. Geoffrey Jones, another young man.

WHAT HAPPENED: Mr. Geoffrey Jones, who had been dating Miss Vanderbilt steadily, to put it mildly, went into the army. Miss Vanderbilt went to California to visit her mother. Mr. Godfrey, a good friend of Mr. Jones and a good friend of Miss Vanderbilt, went to California the next day.

THE RESULTING GOSSIP: The Stork club, Armando's and other haunts of the younger set were rife with chatter. The versions varied, but the story boiled down to these essentials: Mr. Jones and Miss Vanderbilt had been unofficially engaged. Mr. Jones had gone into the army. Mr. Geoffrey had "moved in." Miss Vanderbilt had gone to Hollywood. Mr. Godfrey had pursued her to woo her. Mr. Jones was out. Mr. Godfrey was in. Miss Vanderbilt was liable to elope with Mr. Godfrey any minute.

THE UNEXCITING TRUTH: Mr. Jones did not introduce Mr. Godfrey to Miss Vanderbilt. Au contrairie, Mr. Godfrey introduced Mr. Jones to Miss Vanderbilt. Mr. Godfrey and Miss Vanderbilt have been close friends for years, chiefly because her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and his aunt, Mrs. Cortland Schuyler Van Rennssalear, were bosom friends.

Mr. Godfrey did not go to California to woo Miss Vanderbilt. He went to woo a job in the Lockheed airplane factory. Failing this, he took a job in a Los Angeles clothing business, where he is doing what he formerly was doing in New York—selling gentlemen's apparel.

It is not true that, speaking of Miss Vanderbilt's affections, Mr. Godfrey is "in" and Mr. Jones is "out." At the moment they are both "out." Another gentleman, a coast gentleman, is in.

BLAMES CITY WELLS FOR DROP IN WATER SUPPLY AT LEXINGTON

Pointing out that the sinking of two Mansfield wells for water near Lexington may have interferred with that village's supply, Mayor J. Richard Gore of Lexington asked city council to grant a request that this city sell it water.

Gore said that several Lexington residents felt that the drilling of the city's No. 6 and 7 wells near the village well ruined its ability to supply sufficient water for village uses.

The Lexington mayor said that the village had drilled a seven-inch well about ten years ago and was able to get about 250 gallons a minute out of it. After the drilling of Mansfield's No. 6 well, however, Gore said the Lexington supply dropped to only 50 gallons a minute.

With the sinking of No. 7 well, the Lexington well had to be abandoned except for emergency use, according to Gore and the village has been relying upon a three-inch auxiliary well which, he says, cannot possibly supply enough water for the village.

Gore said that the state health department had advised that Lexington drill a new well, only 200 yards from Mansfield's No. 7 well. The Lexington mayor believed this would be too costly for the village and asked that council consider supplying water to Lexington from Well No. 7.

Lexington would need only 4,900,000 gallons a year while the city pumps almost 4,000,000 daily. Gore said that the village used only about 100,000 gallons a day.

ALLOWS CLAIMS

Council Pays Damages to Two Motorists at Session.

Council last night authorized payment of the claims of two Mansfield motorists who asked damages to their cars through negligence on the part of the city.

Walter J. Roselip, 37 Bradford avenue, was allowed a claim of $8.75 for damages caused his auto last January when it was struck by Fire Chief Seeburger's car near No. 2 fire station on North Main street.

Betty Richey, 315 Sturges avenue was allowed $7 for damages to her auto caused when she struck an open ditch on West Dickson avenue on March 5. Miss Richey had originally asked $17.50 but agreed to settle for the smaller amount.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo.—(INS)—A twin-motored army bomber, carrying four airmen from their base at Felts Field, Wash., was piloted to a safe landing last night after being forced down in deep-gullied timberlands of the White mountains northeast of Rock Springs, a civil aeronautics radio operator reported today.

None of the crew members was injured, according to information relayed by the operator to airport officials at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mansfield, Shelby Men Named In Action For Taxes.

Actions seeking to collect a total of $529.38 in state sales and use taxes and penalties from Mansfield and Shelby business and professional men had been filed today in Richland county common pleas court by William E. Evatt, state tax commissioner.

Nick Kuler and S. Breres, proprietors of a lunch room at 17 West Fourth street, were named in a suit for $183 in sales tax assessments, while the Glasener Construction company, Richland Trust building, were cited for tax claims totaling $156.68.

CHECK NAMES ON LOAN PETITIONS

Election Board Studies 2,300 Signatures In County.

County election board workers today were checking 2,382 signatures on 44 initiative petitions circulated in Richland county in behalf of the proposed bill to reduce the interest rate on small loans.

The petitions were sent here by the secretary of state for the election board to check on the addresses of signers, Clerk Philip Wolfe of the election board said. Only the signatures of eligible voters in the county will be qualified.

The measure would license small loan operators and limit the interest rate on loans up to $300 to two and one-half per cent instead of the present three per cent.

Braves Lose to Drop Four Games Behind Loop Leaders

Sport Podge by REX HESS

If I heard it once last night I heard it a dozen times from the small crowd of fans at the ball park:

"This is a lot different from the crowd that was out here last night when the colored team played. Why can't we have crowds like that all the time? People will come out to see a good baseball show but they won't come to see a good ball game."

The crowd of the night before when 1,760 persons paid their way into the ball park showed the result of special promotion and proper publicity.

Ohio State league clubs could increase their crowds if they went to some effort to improve their advance publicity by supplying newspapers over the circuit with pictures of outstanding players.

Pictures will draw more fans at the gate than all the words that can be written, but it's up to the ball clubs to see that the papers get them.

Mansfield's B-Nai Briths are a modest bunch of boys. They went to Toledo Sunday to win an inter-city softball championship from Detroit, Columbus and Toledo. but never a word did they say about it when they returned home.

And if I hadn't happened to see it in a Toledo paper, it would still be a secret.

Dave Lapine, who has been challenging me all season to a round of golf, and never getting around to playing it, went round and round the Toledo base paths, clouting two home runs as Mansfield swamped Columbus in the opener 11 to 2.

Irv Linder led the attack as Mansfield won the championship game from Detroit 7 to 3.

Ah, there, boys, your secret's out,
What have you got to keep quiet about?

Indians Primed To Sweep

Bagby-Feller Slated To Face Tigers.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Off to a good start in their series with Detroit, the Indians have Jim Bagby and Bob Feller primed for a sweep of the three games.

Bagby was slated to pitch against Johnny Gorsica today, with Feller going after his 21st victory tomorrow.

Southpaw Al Smith stopped the Bengals with six hits last night to win, 2 to 1. The quiet portsider had to be at his best as big Buck Newsom gave the Redskins only five hits and fanned nine batters. Detroit's talkative flinger lost his stuff momentarily in the sixth inning and before he recovered the Indians had their two runs.

Smith started the fireworks with a single to center. He was forced by Lou Boudreau, but Gerry Walker dropped a hit back of second base. Jeff Heath then gave 30,082 fans their thrill of the night with a mighty triple to right.

A walk to Frankie Croucher, Newsom's sacrifice and Barney McCosky's single through the box produced the Bengals' tally in the third. Bruce Campbell and Pinky Higgins followed with hits, but Smith shut the door by getting the dangerous Rudy York on a bounder to Ken Keltner.

It was Al's eighth triumph against seven setbacks and Newsom's 15th defeat compared with eight victories. The Cleveland flinger fanned eight men and issued only one base on balls.

The Indians came near having to play bare-handed. Four boys broke into their locker room in the afternoon and romped off with all the gloves. The culprits were spotted by groundskeepers and finally cornered by police under the stands.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are cutting capers that must make their National league rivals tremble every time the Buccaneers' brig sails upon the scene these days.

During the past two weeks the bold Buccos have made every team they faced walk the plank—winning 16 out of 19—and the Cincinnati Reds, their latest victims, apparently have gone down for the last time.

The Pirates raided the Reds again yesterday, 7-5, to send the world champions to their fifth straight defeat and kill whatever faint hopes they may have had for another pennant.

Pittsburgh was outhit, 13-11, but scored three runs in the fourth on Vince DiMaggio's homer, and four runs on five hits in the seventh.

This left the Pirates nine games out of first place, just close enough to keep the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers from feeling they have the fight strictly between themselves.

The Cardinals took a 6-2 setback from the Chicago Cubs to drop within one game of the idle Dodgers. Lefty Olsen held the Redbirds to four hits and received timely batting support from his teammates.

In the day's other National league encounter the Boston Braves nosed out the Phillies, 10-9.

The New York Yankees lost a game of their American league lead by bowing to the Washington Senators, 1-3, while the Cleveland Indians squeezed past Detroit, 2-1. This left the Yanks with an 11-game margin.

The Senators gambled on Alejandro Carrasquel, who hadn't started a contest all season, and he held the Bombers to nine hits. Lefty Marius Russo started for New York and yielded four hits for three runs in the first inning. Two errors gave the Senators their deciding tally in the second stanza.

The Boston Red Sox scored their second straight one-run decision over the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-5. The Chicago White Sox-St. Louis Browns' night encounter was rained out.

They Have Sore Feet After 129 Holes of Golf

Left to right, George Sturgeon, Milt Rosso and Lloyd Wylie.

These golfers have sore feet—and with a good reason. They have just completed 129 holes of golf, playing continuously for 15 hours and 15 minutes on the Enger Park golf course at Duluth, Minn. The trio is believed to have set a world's record in continuous play. It is estimated they covered 40 miles.

Trotters Vie For Honors

Bill Gallon Favored In 16th Hambletonian.

GOSHEN, N. Y. —(AP)— Nine three-year-old trotters—five colts and four fillies—brought their records and claims for division titular honors down to good time park's triangular-shaped track today for the 16th Hambletonian.

Only the cast was changed for frotting's Kentucky derby as upwards of 25,000 visitors took over this little Orange county capital, which has seen the best of the trotters and pacers come and go for more than 100 years.

Horsemen and other followers of the standard breds have argued today's race pro and con, and they ended the discussions just where they started—that Bill Gallon is the horse to beat for the winner's share of the $38,729 amounting to $20,365.95. So well did R. H. Johnston's brown colt from Charlotte, N. C., dominate the two-year-old field last year that he was established a 3 to 2 choice.

Pepetual, with whom Dr. H. M. Parshall of Urbana, Ohio, is seeking to be the first owner-driver to win the big event, came up to the race with the best three-year-old record. But after scoring his third stake victory of the year last week he became ill and had not recovered fully when the doctor paid his $500 starting fee yesterday.

As a result, perpetual was not expected to go postward at better than 12 to 1. Rated above him were Bill Strang's His Excellency, a consistent money-performer for two years but still bidding for his first heat victory, and the entry of Ebby Gerry's fast train and E. Roland Harriman's Florimel.

Both Fast Train and Florimel have speed to burn, but they also have shown a tendency to break stride when the going gets tough.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — The Cleveland Indians can have Robert Feller for the remainder of the season but he will probably belong to Uncle Sam next year.

Ohio Softball Kings Booked

Toledo Page Dairies To Meet Mansfield Team.

On August 13, another outstanding softball attraction will be laid before the eyes of the people of Mansfield, when the defending state champions of Ohio will be in team under the lights at the Fairgrounds.

The Toledo Page Dairys are the same team who beat the Fergusons State Auditors last year in the state championship finals.

They have an enviable record, having won the state championship in four out of the last six years, and last year reached the quarter finals in the National tournament being beaten only by the Kodak Park team, who ended up by taking the national championship home with them.

The Page Dairys will be opposed by an All-Star team compased mostly of players who formerly played with the DeLuxe Cab and the Sons of Herman teams. This team will include such luminaries of the Mansfield diamonds as Ed Heinrich, Harry Ross, Harold Gieger, Tommy Moxley, and George Hummell. The All-Star team will be managed by Frank Beeber who has successfully handled the best softball teams in Mansfield in the past several years.

Marksmen Open Fire

19-Year-Olds Favored In Clay Target Classic.

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—A couple of 19-year-old kids held the spotlight today as about 350 of the nation's high-ranking skeet shooters opened fire on the national championships in the seventh annual clay target classic.

The youngsters are Miss Patricia Laursen of Akron, O., winner of the women's all-gauge title the last three years, and Dick Shaughnessy of Derham, Mass., only two-time winner of the men's crown. Shaughnessy annexed his first national title in 1936 at the age of 14 and climbed back to the top a year ago.

The current king and queen, despite the heavy opposition, were favored to finish on or near the top. Miss Laursen proved her eyes are "on the beam" recently by breaking 100 in a row to win the Ohio 20-gauge open championship — the first time a woman has gone through the entire century with that weapon.

Shaughnessy, captain of the all-America skeet team, won the 20-gauge race with a perfect 100 in the recent Lordship, Conn., shoot, but dropped the all-around title there in a shootoff that lasted through 150 extra targets.

* * *

Miss Laurson is expected to find her toughest foe in another Ohioan, Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, while 16-year-old F. Lutcher Brown of San Antonio, Tex., and his straight-shooting dad, Lutcher sr., loomed as Shaughnessy's greatest threats.

Leave 13 Runners on Base In 5 to 2 Defeat

Extra-base Blows Spoil Seven-hit Hurling Effort for Chuck Byers

MANSFIELD'S BRAVES today are four games behind the Ohio State league pace-setting Fremont Green Sox after dropping a 5 to 2 decision to the Hose last night at the Fairground.

Chuck Byers held the Sox to seven hits, but four of the blows were for extra bases, and three of these clouts figured heavily in the scoring.

Mansfield got away to a one-run lead in the third inning when Dick Morse and Eddie Mutryn walked and Bill Salem singled.

But Fremont won the game with two runs in the fifth on a single by Sprys and doubles by Ramsey and Miesle, and they added three more markers in the seventh on a double by Miesle, a single by Toth, a base for Oddo when he was hit by a pitched ball, and a long triple to right center by Eagan.

Mansfield had plenty of chances to win, leaving 13 runners stranded on the paths, and lacking the punch three times with the bases loaded.

Bill Salem collected three of the Braves' eight hits off Lefty Fisher while Tim Mangan connected for two. That left just three blows for Morse, Mutryn and Siegbert to divide among them, and nothing at all for the rest of the club.

Mutryn walked three times and drove a double down the right field line.

Tonight the Braves go to Fremont, and tomorrow night they meet the Fostoria Red Birds here.

Sports Drop Supplies 8-5

Fancy Fielding Marks Opening Series Tilt.

Yuncker's Sports subdued the Athletic Supplies 8-5 last night at Prospect park in the first of a three game series for the sporting goods championship of the city.

Yunckers moved out to a four to one lead in the second and kept the Supplies in hand throughout the contest.

The game was marked by fancy fielding on both sides, Kurek and Baki, of Yunckers, and Black of the Supplies, making sparkling catches in the outfield.

Lesch, with a single and two doubles, and Fogle with a single, double and a homer led the winning club at the plate. Black and Mecker did the heavy stick-work for the Supplies.

The series wil lbe continued in two weeks, both teams having entered the district softball tourney at Ashland, next week.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—The daffy major league schedules: New York has three major league ball clubs but for four consecutive afternoons this week doesn't have a day ball . . . you add it up . . . and did you know that Lee Grissom of the Phillies has lost 11 games and hasn't won one, but has one of the lowest earned-run averages in the National league. Which shows how hopeless it is to pitch for the Phillies. . . . George Uhle, the Brooklyn scout, who has been watching International league games for a month, calls Johnny Lindell, young right-hander on the Yankees' Newark farm, a $100,000 prospect. . . . Joe Mernik of Minnesota, whose educated toe beat Michigan and Northwestern last year, may not be available for Bernie Bierman's current machine because of scholastic difficulties.

Lima Meets Cincy Club

Tangle With Favorites In Junior Legion Play.

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—A team from Cincinnati, newly-installed as the boys to beat, met undefeated Lima in the headline attraction of the Ohio American Legion Junior baseball championships today.

One other game, Lokisville vs. Cedarville, was on the fourth-round card. Warren, the old favorite that lost much prestige through a 12-4 drubbing administered by Cincinnati yesterday, drew a bye.

Regardless of the outcome today, both Lima and Cincinnati will get another crack at the title. The tournament is based on a two-losses-and-out rule; and neither team has been defeated yet. On the other hand, either Louisville or Cedarville will be out of the play by night, both of them already having bowed once.

Cincinnati hammered out 18 hits in crushing the Warren boys, who committed eight errors. It was the first setback in three tournament starts for the Trumbull county team, runner-up last year to the champion Springfield club.

* * *

Two more of the 10 district champs who began the week-long tournament battle Monday fell by the wayside yesterday. Perrysburg suffered its second defeat, 9-10, at the hands of Louisville, and Cedarville eliminated Columbus Camp Chase 7 to 3.

Rapid-Fire Match Highlights Shoot

Fancy marksmanship by L. A. Arntz, who shot a 97 in a rapid fire match at 200 and 300 yards, highlighted the Ohio Rifle and Pistol association matches at Ashland, Sunday.

* * *

Arntz' mark of 50-47 for the 97 total was seven points higher than any other competitor. His win marked the seventh rapid-fire match which he has won this season. Arntz also copped the grand aggregate match. Lloyd Bender, of Galion was second.

* * *

C. A. Hassinger took third honors in the 200-yard off-hand match, in which Arntz was second.

DURHAM, N. C. — (U.P.) — The suspension of player Eddie Mayo of the Los Angeles baseball club of the Pacific coast league for one year for spitting in the face of an umpire has been upheld by President W. G. Bramham of the National Association of Minor leagues.

INSURANCE HELPS HOWARD JONES HEIRS

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Howard Jones, University of Southern California football coach, left an estate listing real estate valued in excess of $500 and personal property worth $5,000 and yielding a $500 yearly income, his will filed yesterday disclosed. A son, Clark Howard Jones, 24, was bequeathed $1, the will explaining he was provided for in a $25,000 insurance policy.

A daughter, Carolyn Jones, 14, was left the residue of the estate and a $48,000 insurance policy. Jones' widow, Mrs. Jane Dean Jones, was not named in the will, which explained that Jones was disposing of only his share of their property.

FAR EASTERN CRISIS KEEPS MARKET SLOW

Minor Rallies Fail To Touch Stock Leaders; Volume Stays at Low Ebb.

NEW YORK—Some minor rallies sprouted in the stock market today but many issues remained untouched by the uplift influence. The irregular improvement brought no corresponding rise in volume, which continued at a low ebb.

The share lists slightly better tone after yesterday's unimpressive action in the general list was associated by brokers with the market's internal condition. The far-eastern situation, German claims of Russian repulses and price control imponderables still tended to hold potential buyers in restraint.

Market analysts displayed interest in the weekly petroleum statistics in view of reported plans for a strict rationing of gasoline in some eastern areas where the 7-to-7 closing of service stations was said to have failed to effect enough consumption curtailment to satisfy federal authorities.

Stocks of gasoline throughout the country showed a further drop of 166,000 barrels, but mainly it was attributed to a decline in refinery operations.

BREAK ATTEMPT AT O. S. R. TOLD

Glattke Reveals 3-Week-Old Story of Five Inmates Who Slugged Guard.

The inmates involved in the escape attempt were Robert Souders, Montgomery county, serving a term for breaking and entering; Jack Morris, Montgomery, burglary and larceny; Harry Knight, Hamilton county, auto theft; Clifford Hyer, Clark county, burglary, and Rowland Franklin, Coshocton county, robbery.

Franklin entered the reformatory last June 18, only a month before the escape attempt. The others had served a year or more of their sentences.

Glattke said the saw used by the inmates apparently was passed to them from an outside source. An investigation of the case is under way, he added.

SCORES PRICES

Henderson Terms Increase on Silk 'Profiteering.'

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Leon Henderson, chief of the office of price administration and civilian supply, today told congress that current price increases of silk stockings constituted "profiteering."

"We hope the communities where this profiteering is taking place will make it publicly known," he told the house banking and currency committee, indicating his belief that the situation could be policed in that manner.

"Our office has been under pressure to fix all silk prices, but prices of silk on store shelves have not gone up because supplies have been cut off," Henderson declared. "That kind of profiteering is easy to see."

that Japan would not be likely to risk action that might lead to serious difficulties with both the United States and Russia.

In this connection, Paul V. McNutt, former high commissioner to the Philippines, said in an interview that Japan, by its recent aggressive actions, had "welded her neighboring powers into an effective united front against herself."

"Japan," he said, "inevitably faces the united might of the Democratic nations.

"Australia, the other members of the British commonwealth of nations, China, the Dutch Indies and the United States constitute a formidable barrier to further Japanese aggression and they should take advantage of their strategic position.

"These powers confront Japan from almost every direction. In the north, there is Russia whose national interests now lie in the same direction as ours. There is only one logical policy to be followed at present—Japan must be made to understand that she can move no further without fighting.

"I do not think she will choose to fight," McNutt concluded.

Although Russia has sufficient cash to pay for its war orders and does not need lend-lease assistance, the Soviet government is using the procurement service of the lend-lease agency to speed the flow of needed supplies, administration sources said.

PROTEST EXTENSION

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Green, president of a mothers of Sons forum here, left last night for Washington to protest against proposals to extend selective service training limits beyond a year. She said 2,000 other Cincinnatians and "thousands of others from all parts of the country" would follow her within tw weeks.
